SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says North Vietnamese leaders have assured him that American prisoners of war will be released "when we stop this senseless bombing and get on with the business of peace." Clark did not elaborate fully but did say he would speak in more detail at a news conference today.

Agnew Defends U.S. Principles

Credibility With Allies Cited in Staying in War

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says that the principles that led America into the Vietnam war remain valid, "and no amount of George McGovern saying we should crawl on our knees to Hanoi will change that."

Agnew told 500 persons at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Sunday night that the war issue represents a clear departure between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

"If we left our allies they way George McGovern would have us leave them," Agnew said, "then America's diplomatic credibility, America's position in the world would be forfeited. Who in the world would want an ally that would run when the going got tough?"

In Nixon, he said, the nation has a President who is "not seeking instant popularity by doing the wrong thing. He is willing to see this matter through. It's not going to take much longer."

By Sept. 1, he said, the Nixon administration will have cut the troop level in South Vietnam to 39,000 from 565,000 in 1969.

"The winding down of the war has been accomplished without sacrificing the principle of American assistance to those who seek to resist aggression." That principle, he said, "is as valid tonight as it was the day the first American soldier set foot on Vietnam soil."

"There is no question that the POWs will be released when we stop this senseless bombing and get on with the business of peace," said Clark, who served in the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Waldheim Warns Big Powers Not to Attempt to Run World

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In his first broad policy statement since becoming secretary-general of the United Nations, Kurt Waldheim warns the big powers against trying to run the world without the world organization and asserts his own responsibility to speak out on life-or-death issues.

The 53-year-old Austrian, in office since Jan. 1, took his stand in the introduction to his first annual report on the work of the organization, issued by U.N. headquarters Sunday while Waldheim was visiting China.

It amounted to the secretary general's position toward President Nixon's talks in Peking and Moscow and to Nixon's recent blast at him for saying he had unofficial word from Hanoi that U.S. bombing had damaged North Vietnamese dikes and threatened "enormous human suffering."

"No matter what criticisms or setbacks may arise," Waldheim declared, "the unwritten moral responsibility which every secretary-general bears does not allow him to turn a blind eye when innocent civilian lives are placed in jeopardy on a large scale."

He said "new and positive relationship" of the big powers is encouraging because it affords the possibility that at last the U.N. Security Council will work as it was supposed to work — with "the unanimity of the permanent members in matters affecting peace and security."

But he cautioned: "The idea of maintaining peace and security in the world through a concert of great powers... would seem to belong to the 19th rather than to the 20th Century, where the process of technological advance and democratization is producing a new form of world society."

Small Powers
"The interests, the wisdom and the importance of the vast majority of medium and small powers cannot, at this point in history, be ignored in any endurable system of world order.

"The United Nations provides, or should provide, the means by which all nations, great and small, participate on a basis of sovereign equality in the political process of establishing and maintaining international peace and security."

Waldheim deplored tendencies to downgrade the United Nations and "to deride the organization as such for its failure immediately to succeed where everyone else has failed."

"The United Nations," he reminded, "is not an independent sovereign organization but an association of sovereign governments, and its failures are also their failures."

World War II came about because governments neglected the League of Nations and reverted to previous international practices, Waldheim said, and the danger of a third world war "will always exist" unless they now make "international political institutions work as they were intended to work."

Burger Advises Elimination of District Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger today proposed elimination of the special three-judge federal district courts that have served to quickly channel civil rights and civil liberties appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Burger told the American Bar Association in his third annual "State of the Judiciary" message that the panels have outlived their usefulness and are contributing to the high court's mounting work load.

The chief justice said there are other ways to rush an appeal to the Supreme Court "if the circumstances genuinely require."

Burger made his remarks in a prepared address.

Skip Appeals
Three-judge courts have existed for more than 60 years. At one time they served principally as a protection for the states against interruption of their programs by single federal judges. But in recent years they were noted mostly for providing quick help to protesters and others restricted in their activities by state officials.

The three-judge panels are set up by order of a single federal judge. The losing side can then appeal directly to the Supreme Court instead of first having to go through the U.S. Court of Appeals in the region.

Burger said that these appeals now account for one in every five cases heard by the Supreme Court.

"Direct appeal to the Supreme Court, without the benefit of intermediate review by the Court of Appeals has seriously eroded the Supreme Court's power to control its work load," he said.

He suggested Congress take steps to correct this and other "anomalies of federal jurisdiction."

The high court itself over the last few terms has increasingly thrown out appeals to it from three-judge panels and directed the slower process of going first to an appeals court.

In his report to the ABA's 95th annual meeting, the Chief Justice reiterated his complaint that the federal courts are suffering from "an unprecedented explosion of litigation."

He said 40 to 50 federal judges should be added now to the 620 on the bench. By 1980, he said, 900 probably will be needed.

As one means of holding down the load, he said, Congress should attach a "court impact statement" to every new law that would open the door to new kinds of suits.

"This is not to suggest," he said, "that Congress reject legislation simply because it would increase litigation in the federal courts."

What he had in mind, Burger went on, was that "Congress consider the need of the court along with the need for new legislation."

In the last decade, he reported, the number of cases filed in the U.S. district courts has increased to 145,000 from 92,000; in the U.S. courts of appeal the increase was to 14,500 from 4,200, and in the Supreme Court there were 4,500 cases this past term, contrasted with 2,400 in 1962.

GOP Pledges Negotiations

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers pledged the administration today to strive for a negotiated Vietnam settlement instead of the "immediate and complete withdrawal" promised by the Democrats.

Addressing the opening hearing of the Platform Committee of the Republican National Convention, Rogers lauded the peace moves made by President Nixon and said:

"As our military involvement (in Vietnam) ends we will continue to provide economic support and military supplies to South Vietnam to prevent a military takeover by North Vietnam."

"Thus the political future of Vietnam will be left to the Vietnamese themselves to be determined by the political process."

By implication Rogers rejected the proposal of the Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, to withdraw two American divisions from Europe. He said the United States will seek early negotiations with the European allies for "mutual and balanced force reductions on both sides." Then, with obvious reference to McGovern's plan, he told the platform drafters:

"To avoid compromising our chances for success in such negotiations, we will resist premature pressures for withdrawal of American troops alone."

As leadoff witness for the administration at the four-day hearings of the 108-member GOP platform body, Rogers took pains to challenge the Democratic platform's charge that, whereas the President took office claiming to have a secret plan for peace in Vietnam, "Nixon's plan is still secret."

As Rogers entered the hearing room, a gaunt, ashen white figure clad in a shroud stood silently outside the door — one of the peace demonstrators who have undertaken to remind Republican convention delegates that the killing in Vietnam goes on.

Rogers assured the platform writers: "I believe — and I think most Americans believe — that our nation has the outstanding leader in the world in the cause of peace — the leader who gives the United States the best chance for a generation of peace."

Rogers appealed for broad support by Americans of Nixon's policy, but warned that the path toward peace "requires a readiness to maintain that strength without which no peace can be assured."

Support for a strong national defense plank was expected to develop as the hearings progressed.

In his opening greetings to the platform committee today, GOP national chairman Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas said that, despite McGovern's proposed cut of more than $30 billion in defense outlays, the Democratic platform proposals would increase federal outlays by more than $300 billion, or more than the entire current budget.

Kissinger
Secret Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger is conducting another secret Vietnam negotiating session in Paris today with North Vietnamese officials, the White House said.

The meeting, 16th in a series of secret sessions Kissinger has conducted with Communist negotiators, is the third secret session in the past six weeks.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler made the brief announcement, saying the President's assistant for national security affairs was meeting today with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and the chairman of the North Vietnamese delegation, Xuan Thuy.

Ziegler turned aside all questions on the renewed secret talks, saying, "That's all I have to tell you."

Among the questions he declined to answer was one based on a Time magazine report that recent Kissinger-North Vietnamese meetings have prompted U.S. officials to seek a means by which Hanoi could be assured of the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Marijuana Farm
Raided in Capital

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Madison police raided a city apartment Sunday and arrested two people in connection with a sophisticated indoor garden.

Police said they found two rooms filled with six-foot, potted marijuana plants. The rooms were outfitted with fluorescent lights, a ventilation system, thermometers, irrigation equipment and electric timers, police reported.

It Wasn't Nixon Who Missed Boat on Peace, Rogers Says

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that if the United States ignored a North Vietnamese peace signal four years ago, "it was not President Nixon who missed the boat."

As Democratic vice-presidential nominee Sargent Shriver opened a continent-spanning campaign trip still insisting that Nixon lost "a very golden opportunity" for peace, Nixon's secretary of state talked with reporters in Miami Beach, Fla.

Rogers quoted W. Averell Harriman, chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks under Johnson as saying the signal came in October or perhaps early November of 1968. Shriver was then U.S. ambassador in Paris.

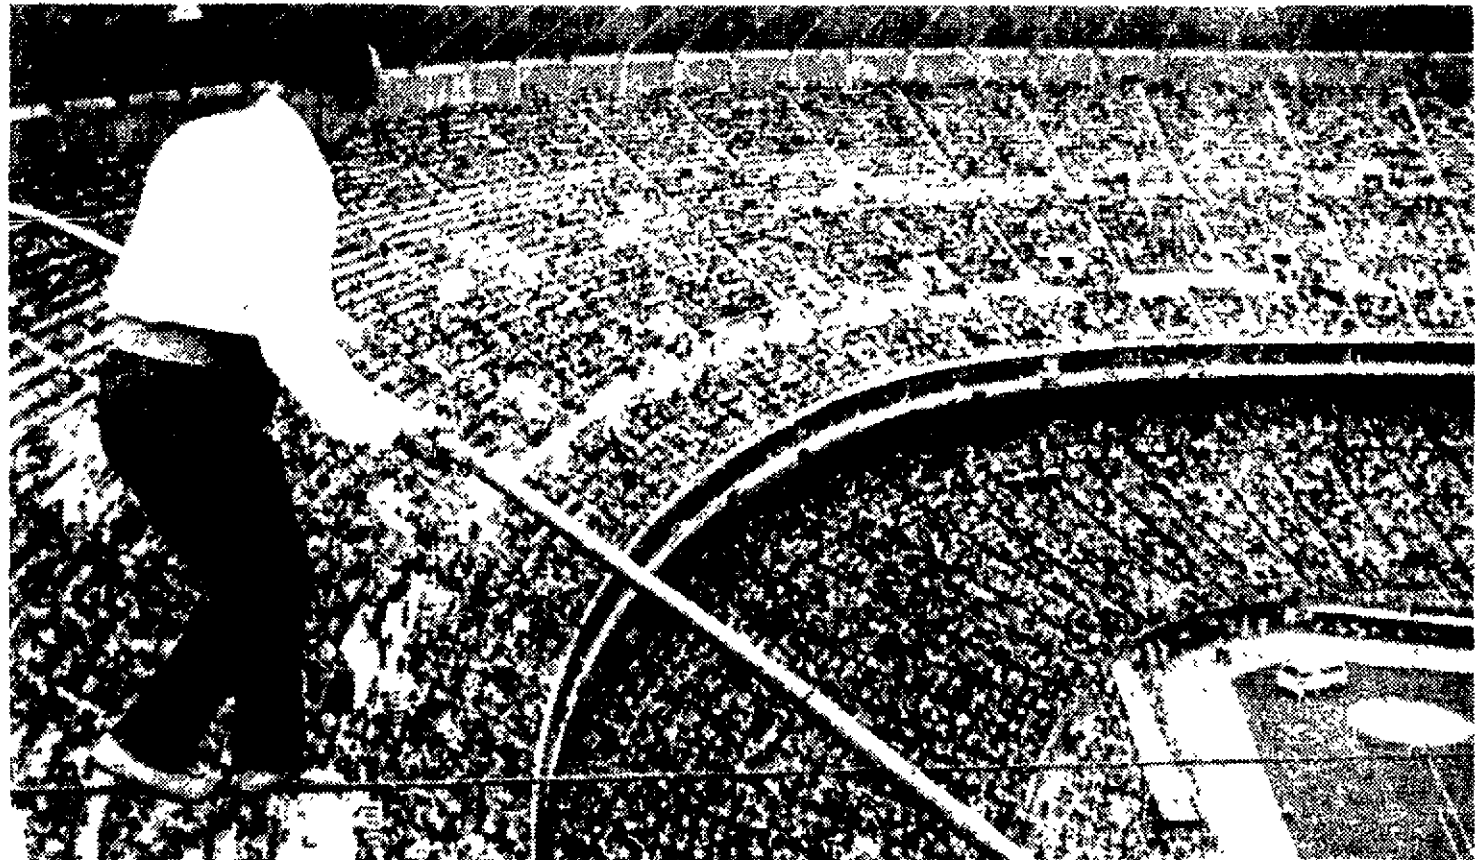

"That would mean the Democratic administration had three months to act on the supposed signal before President Nixon took office," Rogers told reporters as he left a Republican

Divisions Manage to be Self-Supporting

China's Army Has Military - Political Role

EDITORS' NOTE — Wes Gallagher, president of The Associated Press, has been touring China after negotiations in which the AP and Hsinhua, the Chinese news agency, reached an agreement for an exchange of news and photographs.

By WES GALLAGHER

PEKING (AP) — China's army has been placed firmly into the power structure of the government in a position unique in the world today.

A visit to the headquarters of the 196th Division demonstrates this dual civilian-military role.

Its members sit in the revolutionary committees from the top of government to the commune and district level as part of a governing triumvirate of army, administrators and rank and file.

The 196th engages in farming, manufacturing, helping nearby farmers with the harvest and helping govern by having representatives on nearby committees which rule communes, districts and counties.

The People's Liberation Army also is probably much larger than some of the Western estimates of 2.9 million. The Chinese say Soviet Russia has massed a million soldiers on China's northern border, and it is unlikely that China has fewer men facing them. But in addition, in every city, village and rural area, you see army members in uniform or sometimes in peasant clothes helping with the harvest. Figures, of course, are not available.

Farming Country

The 196th Division is deep in farming country. Its barracks are surrounded by crops which belong to the division. Like every unit in the country, the division strives to be self-sufficient. The 196th, already self-sufficient in meat and vegetables, is striving in other areas. A small factory produces medicine for the division's own use and that of nearby areas. Wives of soldiers and a few men run the factory.

The Chinese army is all volunteer and officials say they have far more than enough to choose from — a military career is a coveted one.

The army's role in civilian government was defined by Mao Tse-tung in his famous "May 7" directive when student excesses during the Cultural Revolution seemed to be getting out of hand.

This directive governs all actions in China. It set up the

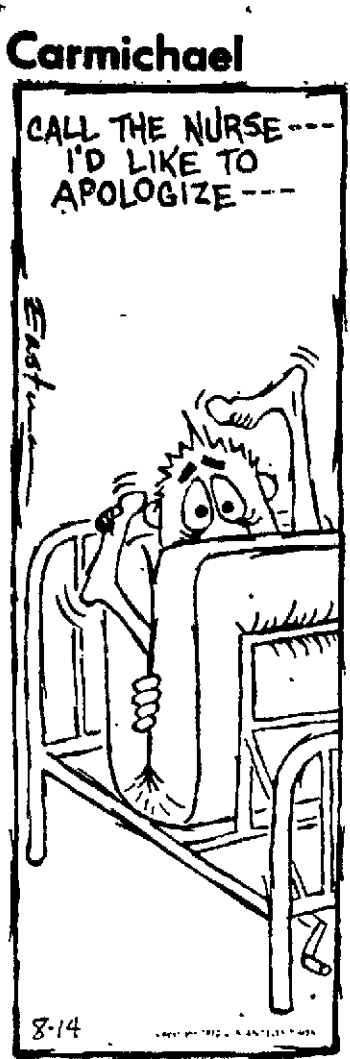

May 7th camps for re-education of dissidents and officials but its definition of the role of the army is likely to have far more impact into the future.

Great School

The directive started off: "The People's Liberation Army should be a great school. In this school, our army should study politics and military affairs, raise its education level, and also engage in agriculture and side occupations and run small or medium-size factories to make products for its own needs or for exchange with the state for equal values. Showcase for Treasures makes a stunning statement in a living room corner meant for work. Sophistication is achieved more through decorating sense than dollars and cents. It starts with quality reproductions of old things—a brass-studded Louis XV chair and Chinese Foo dogs—and is rounded out with shiny examples of contemporary design expertise—a sawhorse desk topped with glass, chrome ceramic candlesticks, signed serigraphs and even small Chagall posters.

Good Taste Can Fight Inflation

Inflated or deflated, money isn't everything — at least in home decor.

More than ever, an interesting decorative theme is a matter of good taste and common sense rather than lavish expenditures. According to Gary Grosbeck, designer for Sears, Roebuck and Co., the superior interior of the 1970s is not measured by designers and dollars but by a sense of personal style and design savvy.

Faithful reproductions of period pieces, pacesetter designs crafted from relatively inexpensive modern materials and free-wheeling do-it-yourself projects with a decorator look have made good design accessible to today's "more-taste-than-money" families, he says.

The secret to success lies in settling on a decorating theme for a room or area of a room and then going at it full tilt — within a given budget. In some cases the dollar-saver might be the choice of a good reproduction rather than an antique.

Advises Reproductions

When a colonial desk corner is wanted, for instance, a reproduction of a Queen Anne original. "The good reproduction has all the advantages of modern technology and all the ing," Grosbeck notes. "I like to think of it as a made-to-order antique."

Creative corner cutting is especially vital when the budget allows for only limited furniture purchases. More good-looking pieces can be squeezed from the same budget if high-quality covers are chosen for inexpensive upholstered items. A low-cost sofa covered in a durable fabric like corduroy or velvet is instantly upgraded in terms of looks and wear.

If a coffee table is taboo because of cost, relatively inexpensive plexiglas cubes can be easy on the budget and still return a wise long-term investment. They can do coffee table duty now and later serve as end tables, for bathroom towel storage or as an entryway sculpture base.

Rather than go overboard on a pair of chairs or a loveseat, when extra seating is needed, unfinished hardwood cubes can be upholstered and fitted with pillows for posh, penny-wise seating. For a more casual solution to the seating problem, giant floor cushions are easy to make.

The do-it-yourself project is another budget-cutter that requires more patience than purchase power.

Grosbeck believes that the well done home decorating project is a basic ingredient of exciting, customized interiors. Even the all-thumbs homemaker can achieve a polished, professional look if she allows for careful measuring, extra time, goof-proof pre-cut materials and perhaps some help from a more skillful friend on the first attempt.

When a bare wall is the one jolt to an otherwise coordinated design scheme, for instance, the do-it-yourselfer has a vast range of choices. In a small room the wall can be covered with adhesive-backed mirror squares for a space-stretching effect. Or, if the look but not the cost of an original work of art is desired, a modern graphic can be hand-painted to cover the wall and even part of the ceiling.

Handyman skills with lumber and nails can turn a wall wasteland into a customized bookshelf. Filled with a prized collection or an interesting mixed bag of accessories and mementos, the bookshelf will become one of the room's focal points.

The best things in home decor — good taste and common sense — are free. With these assets, any home or apartment can boast an exciting interior, the designer concludes.

Ebbens Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

KAUKAUNA — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ebben, route 1, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Tuesday with a Mass of thanksgiving at St. John Catholic Church, Little Chute. A reception, dinner and dance followed at the Darboy Club.

The couple's maid of honor, Mrs. Delia Oudenhoven, was present at the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebben were married at Holy Name Catholic Church, Kimberly, on Aug. 8, 1922. They have farmed in the area since their marriage. Mr. Ebben also was assistant superintendent with Stokely Van Camp, Inc., Appleton.

The couple has four sons: Gerald and Cornell of Greenville; and John and George of rural Kaukauna; and two daughters, Mrs. Howard Keldkamp, Kaukauna; and Mrs. James Diedrich, Greenville. They have 54 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

BY FANK CREPEAU
By FRANK CREPEAU

MOSCOW (AP) — A visit to Moscow's Institute of Beauty shows the Soviet Union is not only interested in creating the new Soviet man ideologically pure, but in making him better and young looking and wrinkle-free.

"Good looks and health go together," said Dr. Inna Ivanovna Kolguneko, director of the institute, a vivacious, dimpled woman who says she's soon to be a grandmother, but looks younger.

The institute is a medical establishment with 60 staff and consultant doctors. They repair disfiguring birth defects, work on skin problems, bob noses, give face lifts, transplant hair and erase wrinkles.

This is the biggest of such establishments in the Soviet Union.

Sign of the Times

Although Dr. Kolguneko says these arts have been practiced here for 40 years, it's a sign of the times that business is increasing rapidly at the institute.

People in the Soviet Union are living better and dressing better than ever before, notes Dr. Kolguneko. "Naturally, the time has come when a person wants to pay more attention to his own personal appearance."

"And people want to stay young. That problem is a social problem in our country as well as your countries," she told a group of foreign correspondents permitted to see the institute on a tour arranged by the Foreign Ministry Press Department.

The institute is housed in one of the new, high-rise buildings on Kalinin Street that some foreigners call the "Miracle Mile."

For Dr. Kolguneko, a site "on the best street in town, the showcase of Moscow," proves "how much the party and the government care about these problems."

While medical care is free in the Soviet Union, the patients must pay for services at the institute. Dr. Kolguneko said a face lift or nose job that would cost $1,000 to $1,500 in a western country is done here for the equivalent of $48 to $60.

She said among the institute's 68,000 patients last year, 113 were foreigners "61 from capitalist countries and 52 from socialist countries."

But before a foreigner comes to Moscow to get a face lift he should calculate plane fares and plan on a stay of about two months in Moscow. The institute staff said from initial consultation to actually getting a hospital bed can take two months and even longer.

Despite the low prices and insistence that nobody is turned away from the institute, Dr. Kolguneko said it is "totally profitable and its existence is covered by money we take in."

She said 30 per cent of the patients are men, adding with a laugh: "Many of them wanting to get the shape of their noses fixed after boxing, wrestling, hockey or other sports."

Treatment for removing wrinkles is popular with women. "Now it is possible to have a totally young face without any scars," said Dr. Irina Ivanovna Grom-Vrublevskaya, the institute's deputy director.

Work With Men

Soviet women still work in the fields or in factories and at construction projects alongside men and she was asked if such conditions caused particular problems for Soviet women.

"Women are women no matter where they are and they always have time to look after themselves," she said. Dr. Grom-Vrublevskaya, who said she was "long past 50," flushed slightly when asked how she kept her youthful face. "I had an operation," she said.

Institute doctors talk many people out of having their noses changed or other operations. "If a 16-year-old doesn't like her nose we explain her facial skeleton is still growing and we don't do such operations before the age of 18," said Dr. Kolguneko.

Sewing Contest Wednesday for Local Girls

Area home economics teachers, Mrs. Ellen Goolsbey, Mrs. Leila Blajeski and Mrs. Dorothy Parker, will be judges for the local finals of The Singer World Stylemaker Contest at 7 p.m. Wednesday at The Singer Co. Fifty girls will be competing for prizes in the first judging of the 20th annual sewing competition.

Judges will select three local Queens of Sewing, one in the Junior Miss Division (ages 10-12) one in the Sub Deb Division (ages 13-15) and one in the Deb Division (ages 16-18). The three girls selected will be eligible to compete in the regional judging and may go on to national semifinals and finals to be in New York in October. All entries are the result of work done in Singer dressmaking course.

When a hand appears to be most routine the careful declarer can afford a little extra thought. If the extra time proves wasted, then little is lost, since the routine hand will "play itself" in near record time. However, if events prove otherwise, then the extra effort will be well rewarded.

Today's game hand is an excellent example of this principle. The declarer who refused to play quickly who routinely came home with his game.

| South | West | North | East |
| 1♠    | Pass | 2♠    | Pass |
| 4♠    | Pass | Pass  | Pass |

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

After West's takeout double North's raise showed just about his approximate strength. If North had held a good nine or 10 points or more, he would have redoubled to assume partnership captaincy. South was happy to gamble out the game, confident that most of the outstanding strength was concentrated in the West hand.

After West's lead of the diamond king, the careless declarer can go down by simply following "what comes naturally." He wins the diamond lead and plays two rounds of trumps. He frowns a bit when trumps do not break; however, he sees no reason to leave one trump at large. He draws East's last trump and then tries the club finesse. At this point he awakens to the danger. He has no re-entry to his hand! Taking his only reasonable chance (West is marked with the heart ace by his double), he plays the club ace in an attempt to drop the club king. When the impossible dream fails (would West really have 10 red cards?) declarer moans about the "bad trump break."

The careful declarer does more thinking and less moaning. He also wins the first diamond (a duck is unnecessary) and plays two high trumps. He looks ahead and, seeing that he needs two club finesses to obtain a discard, he defers drawing the last trump.

Instead he takes a club finesse and then returns to his hand with the third trump for another finesse. The ace of clubs provides a place for one of his heart losers and he scores his 10 tricks.

Another example of careful trump management and a good general rule: "Never draw all the trumps unless dummy's trumps can serve no useful purpose."

Never Oil Still Locks

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: My front door lock is becoming so stiff I am afraid the key will snap off in it one of these days. The apartment superintendent tried a few drops of light oil some time ago. This helped but now the lock is stiffer than ever. Can I try anything else? — Chicago.

A: That super should have his head examined. Putting oil in a lock is disaster. All it does is collect more dust and dirt to make the lock stiffer. Lubricate only with powdered graphite, puffed in with a small snouted rubber bulb, or use one of the dry lubricant sprays widely sold in hardware and variety stores. If this is too late to overcome the oil, you may have to get the locksmith over.

Q: How can I make my garage floor drain properly out the overhead door? We have always been plagued by the fact that the floor seems to slope toward the rear. We have to sweep pools of rain away from the back wall where garden tools are standing. — Hartford.

A: Mix yourself some ready-mix concrete and water and pour a new layer — starting at the back — so the floor slopes in the right direction. That's the only practical solution I know for this problem.

Q: I have seen samples of oak parquet flooring squares and like the appearance very much. But is laying such a floor an overly difficult job for an amateur to attempt? Can I get any directions to study for myself? — Green Bay, Wis.

A: Naturally, this is not a job you can toss off lightly without some painstaking effort. But the results will be well worthwhile. Good directions are available from National Oak Flooring Manufacturers Association, 814 Stereok Building, Memphis, Tenn. 38103.

Young Women Presented at Candlelight Ball

The 25th Candlelight Ball was a gala event Saturday evening at Riverview Country Club as five daughters of club members were introduced to the adult membership. The evening began with a pre-ball party at the home of

Mr. and Mrs. John Carpenter with Mrs. Dan Cloud assisting. Attending were the girls, their escorts, guests, and graduate senior sons of club members and their dates. The party-goers then went on to the club for dinner and, at 9 p.m., the formal presentation by A. Sherman Frinak, club president.

Afterward there was dancing, including the traditional first dance with fathers, and later the young people had a post-ball party, also at the club, with Mrs. Harold Hobbs and Mrs. V. K. Derscheid, co-chairmen.

Serving on the ball committee were Mrs. Frederick Froehlich and Mrs. Owen Kuehmstedt, co-chairmen, with Mmes. John Gall, Ronald Hoffman, Robert Park, Dean Einspahr, Jerome Otteson, Robert Battiola, Armin Albrecht, Kenneth Davis and Robert Kenney assisting.

VFW Auxiliary Joins Pierre Post in Potluck

A joint potluck picnic at Telulah Park is slated at noon Sunday by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Harvey Pierre Post 2778 and the Ladies Auxiliary, it was announced when the Auxiliary met recently.

September 6 is Poppy Poster Day and Sept. 8, Poppy street sale, beginning at 7 a.m. and running through 9 p.m.

Gold Star Mothers luncheon is scheduled at 1 p.m. Sept. 13 at the VFW Clubhouse. The public is invited to make reservations.

Post and Auxiliary members will travel by bus to the Grand Army Home, King, for a birthday party Sept. 25. The bus will leave the club house at 6:30 p.m.

Members were urged to save Vets dog food labels to help purchase a seeing eye dog for the blind.

Public card parties will continue to be held every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. at the clubhouse.

National Competition Slated Sunday

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

This coming weekend will be charged with excitement for members of the trio and sextet of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 38, of Appleton. For Sunday at the Palmer House in Chicago, the Harmonettes will be competing against state winners from across the nation for top national auxiliary singing honors.

Although at least one of the three singing groups of the auxiliary has managed to come away with state wins eight of the past nine years, financing trips to national convention has been difficult. Therefore, this will be only the second time in the eight years that attendance has been possible. Primary to attendance has been the fact that the women must pay for their own travel expenses as well as costumes and musical arrangements.

Entertaining for various community groups has helped add funds to their coffers. Although they never charge for a performance, they are often given a token of appreciation. This then is added to their convention fund. Over the past American Legion calendar year, they performed an astounding 32 times.

Four years ago when the group went to convention New Orleans, they came away with a second place. This time they have their eyes set on the top spot, although they realize that they will have strong competitions. Husbands of the singers will accompany the group to Chicago to applaud them to victory just as they have always done at state.

The three groups have never felt the need for a director, but they do have a manager. Joanne Klitzke keeps records, files reports and makes arrangements for engagements.

When it comes time to work out details for a particular number, they all pitch in with ideas for a total effort. And this is the way they like it.

Since winning at the state convention in July, practice sessions have been held almost every morning for about two hours, which is a departure from their usual once a week session.

When the sextet steps on the stage in Chicago, it will perform two numbers — one required and one of its own choice. These will be "One Little Candle" and "Sunrise, Sunset." The trio will do "Matchmaker" and "Thank Heaven for Little Girls."

Retirement Home Demands Attention To Safety and Comfort Requirements

If retirement is in your near future, you'll want to make your home as comfortable and as convenient as possible. Heating and lighting are two potential problem areas that demand special awareness, according to Marion Longbotham, home management and housing specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Extension. Sometimes a heating problem may seem to exist but is actually the result of drafts passing through a room Mrs. Longbotham cautions. A draft from a door opening directly to the west may lower the room temperature considerably. To easily correct this install a simple outside shield to re-route the wind. Or, plant shrubs near the entrance to help break the wind, Mrs. Longbotham suggests.

If you notice a constant draft in one part of the room, it may be due to inadequate insulation along windows or doors. Check if weatherstripping or caulking is necessary. It could save on heating bills, besides making the room more evenly heated.

Check Lighting Carefully
Lighting is another area which demands careful checking to correct or improve poor conditions. If you have problems seeing your close work, you may need to add light where you work. Quality of vision may decline as you grow older, Mrs. Longbotham admits, and proper lighting is especially important during this time.

At least 150 watts is needed when reading, sewing or doing other close work. Mrs. Longbotham stresses. She suggests three-way bulbs of 50-100-150 or 50-200-250 watts. Low wattage will meet the lighting needs of visiting with friends or playing cards. But for closer work, use at least 150 watts.

Glare from lights can give the impression that the bulb is too bright. Placing the bulb in front of the work area causes glare. Never place a bulb where you can see it directly — above or behind you is the best place to have it. Shade any light to the side or above so the light bulb is out of your direct line of vision.

Fluorescent Bulbs Good
Fluorescent bulbs are especially good to use in a wood-working or hobby area, Mrs. Longbotham points out. They give more light than regular incandescent bulbs of the same wattage and since they are longer, light is spread over a larger area.

Walking through a dark room to find a light switch is a hazard, the specialist warns. A light switch near each doorway, a lighted switch, or a night light with enough light to see objects in the room are possible solutions.

An easily reached light near the bed is essential for safety when getting up during the night. Again, walking to the doorway before reaching the light can be hazardous.

Your Problems

Interracial Adoption Brings Comments

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About that white Iowa couple who were adopting the baby girl of an interracial union, they may be God's own, as you say, but I question their judgment.

Americans are still a race-conscious people. These parents would do well to consider the problems the child will face. Will she be looked down on by both blacks and whites? What will the attitude of the neighbors be? Are they well enough integrated so that she will have access to both black and white friends?

Parents who want to adopt "any child" should realize that children aren't poodles. There's more to it than providing "a good home." A child must grow into adulthood prepared to live in the real world. — Mrs. E. in McComb, Miss.

Dear Mrs. E.: The questions you raise are provocative and there are no easy answers. Since that letter appeared I have been bombarded with expressions of love, hate, praise, condemnation and concern. Name it, and I've had it. Here are some samples of what the mail has been like lately:

From Ohio: God bless that couple with the courage to adopt an interracial child. The folks down South won't be so happy about this prediction, but within 150 years America will be predominantly brown.

From Indiana: You suggested a 21-gun salute for that Iowa couple. I suggest you save the salute for the kid, if he survives. It's a rough world out there and whether you like it or not, Archie Bunker is the new American hero and people love him.

From Edmonton, Canada: I am a 12-year-old girl. I just read a book about a couple who took 12 children of mixed parentage into their home and they are as happy as can be. Anyone who thinks brown skin or different shaped eyes makes a person inferior needs educating.

From Washington, D.C.: How much experience with interracial children have you had, Ann Landers? We adopted a Vietnamese child five years ago and she has put us through hell. The girl has been in a mental hospital for over a year and is still very sick. Our own children are normal and healthy and we rue the day we opened our hearts and our home to this foreign girl.

From Minnesota: Four years ago we adopted a Korean boy. He has brought us a world of joy and happiness, taught our two sons kindness and unselfishness, and we thank God daily for him.

From Alabama: You Northerners have a lot to say about brotherly love and racial equality. God made people different colors for a reason. Birds of a feather belong together. If your granddaughter ter marries a black, you deserve it.

From Hartford, Conn.: A spokesman for The Greater Hartford Association of Black Social Workers says, "Black children should be placed with black families. White families cannot provide the experience that will enable a black child to survive in what they call a 'racist society.' Children face enormous burdens during their growing-up years even under normal conditions. This special situation is an added burden to the child and the parents." I read this in the Hartford Courant two days after your column appeared. It sounds reasonable to me.

So, dear readers, there you hear it. In my opinion, the overall results of what happens to bi-racial, and black- and brown-skinned children who are adopted by white families will not be known for at least 15 years. I'm betting there will be many triumphs and many disasters. Those who try it need unusual courage, emotional stability and an infinite capacity to love. If they succeed, the rewards are tremendous.

'Mirrors of the Mind' Theme for Prange Show

The second level of the parking ramp at Prange's will be a lively scene Wednesday, when the Teen Board along with guest models will present their annual back-to-school fashion show. Theme this year is "Mirrors of the Mind."

Slated to begin at 8 p.m. with dancing from 9 to 10:30 p.m., the show will include smocks, sportswear, blazers, casual wear, lounge and sleepwear and pantsuits.

Tickets may be purchased for 25 cents from members of the Teen Board, in Junior World or at the door.

Serving on the 1972 board are Nancy Lueck, Debbie Thiel, Mary Kay Kaphingst, Phyllis Bevers, Kay Reardon, Karlene Lochner, Judy Kools, Trude Verkuylen, Jody Schmidt, Mary Kons, Londa Renniecke, Wendy Witt, Kim

92 Attend Family Reunion In Fond du Lac

FOND DU LAC — Members of the Edward Meyer family, ranging in age from 85 to three months, met for their 15th reunion Aug. 6 at Lakeside Park.

Mrs. G. B. Yahr, 85, of Appleton, was the oldest member present.

Some of the 92 members came from California, Madison, Florida, Illinois, Nashville, Oconomowoc, Stevens Point, Appleton, Kaukauna, Manitowoc and Racine.

Chairman for the event was Roselle Kleinhuizen, Appleton. She will arrange next year's gathering, which will again be at Lakeside Park.

Alverno Announces Program

MILWAUKEE — Alverno College's fall enrichment and continuing education programs include yoga, paraprofessional day care, a social problems series and a repeat of the award-winning "Careers for Women in Their Fabulous Forties and Fifties." These courses are open to both men and women.

Included in the social problems series are:

"Juvenile Justice" on two evenings, Sept. 20 and 27, with guest speaker, William A. Jennaro, an attorney, and judge-elect, Milwaukee Children's Court. The fee is $5 for both sessions;

"The Separated Child" on two evenings, Sept. 28 and Oct. 5, providing an overview of those children who are separated from their families, either emotionally or physically, and how they are provided with substitute families through adoption, foster family or institutional care. Cecil Braam, coordinator of adoption services, Catholic Social Services, will be moderator. Fee for both sessions is $5, or $2.50 for students and senior citizens;

"Creative Retirement" on Oct. 12, features a panel of retired men and women who will share their individual experiences as retired members of society, and describe how they have found this phase of life enjoyable and meaningful. An overview of the programs and courses featured at the La Farge Institute for Lifelong Learning also will be featured, with Pauline Drewniak, the center's director, as moderator. The fee is $1.50, or 75 cents for students and senior citizens; and

"The Retarded: Burden or Blessing?" on two evenings, Oct. 18 and 25. The first session will cover the mentally retarded: Who are they? Why are they? What can be done? with the second session studying the effects of institutionalization on a mentally retarded child. The coordinators are James Emeier, director of training, and David Geske, director of social services, at Bethesda Lutheran Home in Watertown. The fee for both sessions is $5, or $2.50 for students and senior citizens.

"Careers for Women in Their Fabulous Forties and Fifties" will be repeated this semester with four evening sessions: "You're not finished at 40," Oct. 4; "What do you need?" Oct. 11; "Who needs you?" Oct. 18; and "Where do you go from here?" Oct. 25. The course won an award from the Adult Education Association of Wisconsin in April, 1972. Fee is $20.

The Paraprofessional Day Care course offered on 15 Monday evenings beginning Sept. 11 is designed to produce early childhood aides and will fulfill the licensing requirements for day care center personnel. The fee for the two-credit course is $80.

Alverno also offers a large array of evening and children's art courses, music courses, first-aid and self-improvement workshops. A free booklet describing these and other courses in detail is available from Alverno College, 3401 S. 39th St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53215.

Alcohol Contributes to Overweight Problem

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is alcohol harmful when a person has high blood pressure, high cholesterol and hardening of the arteries?

My husband, who goes to the doctor regularly, finds his blood pressure stays the same whether he drinks or not. Of course he takes medicine to keep his pressure down and controls his weight pretty well. — Mrs. J.O.

Well, alcohol is a sedative, and in moderate amounts it tends to calm a person. But, as you have found, it has no particular effect on blood pressure.

For heavy drinkers who have a weight problem, the story is different. The alcohol contributes to the weight problem and the extra pounds decidedly can have a harmful effect. The emotional consequences of heavy drinking can have an effect, depending. Hangovers, feelings of guilt, a struggle to catch up on duties that were shirked in favor of alcohol, can bother some individuals to the point of creating nervous tension that can send blood pressure up.

Note that I've stressed "moderation." Most people, I think, will consider this factor reasonably. There will be others who will write to me taking me to task for not condemning alcohol totally. I'll read their letters but won't agree with them. And there will be others, at the opposite extreme, who won't write but will drink excessively and then argue that "Dr. Thosteson said it was all right." I won't agree with them either.

I would judge, Mrs. O., that your husband probably is a moderate drinker — at any rate, he has watched his pressure both with and without alcohol and he keeps his weight under control.

But alcohol must always be treated with respect. You have to watch out for the prevalent risk of getting into the habit of having two instead of one, and then three instead of two.

Further, alcohol, if not limited to moderate amounts, has been shown to have an unfavorable effect on the heart in some instances by altering the force of the heartbeat and causing extra beats or irregularity in rhythm.

Since the sedative effect of alcohol also reinforces the tranquilizing effects of most medications used for high blood pressure, I think your husband would be wise to discuss this aspect with his doctor, along with a frank statement of how much he drinks.

It may be that the doctor will see no reason to change; but if there is reason to limit drinking, he'll say so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 20 and have a case of herpes simplex or cold sores since I was 8. I have heard that a series of smallpox vaccinations can help reduce these unsightly sores. Is this true? Several doctors have said these vaccinations don't help. What do you have to say on the subject? — T.W.

Only that the results are unpredictable. Some patients have had a series of such vaccinations and had years of relief from the sores. Others haven't seen any improvement. Proving, probably, that there are differences in the causes of this trouble.

When other methods have not helped, I think the smallpox vaccine is worth a try, but I can't guarantee that it will work in any given case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way to make your nose smaller without surgery? Anything you could do at home? — N.B.

Sorry, no. You have fixed bone and cartilage that gives it shape. This can be altered only by surgery.

High blood pressure can be controlled. To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, get "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)," by Dr. Thosteson. To obtain a copy of this helpful booklet, write to him in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

State Council Handed Raise For Legislators

Pay Scale Package Rejected Last Year By State Lawmakers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Legislative Council, which makes recommendations on state employees' salaries, has been handed a statewide pay scale package rejected by the legislature last spring.

The plan—which would give the lawmakers a substantial pay boost—would place legislators' salaries in the scale with other employees.

The council, a six member group which by law makes recommendations on salaries of legislators started meeting last week.

It is required by law to submit its recommendations to the State Personnel Bureau director by Sept. 1 of even numbered years.

Under the plan, all state officials were placed in pay ranges, based on such things as their duties and responsibilities.

Assigned Midpoint Legislators were assigned to one of their ranges, with their salaries fixed at 65 per cent of the midpoint of the range.

The lower than midpoint spot was determined because legislators' jobs are part time.

If the council adopts that plan, it would give legislators a $14,224 salary, compared to the present pay of $8,900.

Verne Knoll, council secretary, emphasized that the proposal last spring, approved by the legislature's Joint Finance Committee, represented the first major effort to provide a relationship between the salaries of all major state employees.

The plan became part of the original budget review bill turned down by the legislature.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 14, the 227th day of 1972. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced the unconditional surrender of Japan, ending World War II.

On this date: In 1784, the first Russian colony in Alaska was founded on Kodiak Island.

In 1848, the Oregon Territory was organized.

In 1900, the Boxer Rebellion in China ended as U.S. Marines helped capture Peking.

In 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act.

In 1941, during World War II, the shipboard signing of the Atlantic Charter by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill officially was announced.

In 1947, the United States canceled about $1 billion in debts owed by Italy.

Ten years ago: Two Soviet space craft were circling the earth in adjacent orbits and were in visual and radio contact.

Five years ago: A priceless crown stolen from a statue of the Virgin Mary in a Jerusalem church was recovered and three men arrested.

One year ago: There were fires and shooting in Belfast as Northern Ireland attempted to celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Artificial Lake Named After State Newsman

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A new artificial lake within a Vilas County forest plantation will be created and named in honor of one of this state's best known newspapermen of recent decades.

The Wisconsin Press Association announced the project as a "living memorial" to Carl Zielke, for nearly four decades its managing director who is planning to retire.

The sponsoring group is an Association of community newspaper publishers, most of them producing weekly editions.

Several decades ago at the initiative of Zielke, the Association bought a substantial tract of cut-over land near Eagle River and established new plantings as a demonstration forest in collaboration with Trees for Tomorrow reforestation education service. "Lake Carl Zielke" will be created inside that plantation, near the picnic grounds where many of the Association's seasonal events are held.

Romain Brandt, acting manager of WPA, said that contributions to the fund to finance the development will come from weekly and daily newspaper publishers in Wisconsin, among others.

Zielke's formal retirement will come next year. A dedication ceremony at Eagle River is scheduled for Sept. 15.

4 Teacher Groups Unite, Might Seek Help in Bargaining

Four Fox Valley public school teacher associations have joined to form the Winnebagoand UniServ unit which will tie them more closely in contract negotiations and conceivably could become a single bargaining unit, if boards of education would go for the idea.

Making up the region's UniServ unit are the education associations from Appleton, Neenah, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac. The group recently hired a full-time director who, initially, will bargain only for the Oshkosh teachers.

Wesley Halverson, Appleton Education Association (AEA) president, said the UniServ unit could be viewed as a loosely formed bargaining unit but was being looked at primarily as an organization to improve communication between teachers of the schools and among teachers in each school system, as well as with the communities.

The four schools will have a fulltime professional looking after their concerns instead of them relying on the overworked Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) professional staff.

Provide Help

Halverson said that the UniServ unit will help the local associations in setting up negotiations requests.

"I don't think that it will do anything to make the teacher in a better position in the final settlement," Halverson added.

The Appleton teachers and the board are expected to enter 1973 contract negotiations next month. They completed about 15 months of talks on the 1972 contract late last spring.

Lengthy contract talks, which sometimes leave the boards of education in a position where they have to estimate teachers' salary costs for their budgets, have plagued school budgeting in recent years.

Halverson said that joint negotiations and possibly multi-year contracts might be a way to reduce this strain. However, he said that the teachers associations haven't taken a position on either issue, and boards would be contacted for their feelings on it.

One of Ten

The Winnebagoand UniServ one of 10 in the state and the first one encompassing more than one school district — has hired Beryl Watson, formerly a UniServ director in South Dakota, as its director. He is starting Aug. 28.

The new UniServ has been in the making for about a year as leaders of the four schools' education associations met frequently to organize it. Numerous states have them.

Halverson said that National Education Association (NEA) and WEA funds will pay for 40 per cent of the local UniServ's operation. This provides the local units not only with a chance to get some of their state and national dues back but also the NEA and WEA services, he said. The local associations are affiliates of both.

He added that the sizes of the four school districts are relatively similar, allowing for the sharing of certain bargaining information.

The Winnebagoand UniServ will be run by an 11-member board of directors, with representation based on association size. Appleton will have four, Neenah and Fond du Lac, two each, and Oshkosh three.

No Prior Professional

Teachers have had a regional group for years in the Fox Valley Council Education Association, but the association had no fulltime professional and not the active involvement the new group will have.

In other matters, Halverson reported that the AEA was awarded second place by the

Walk Through Fox Cities Nets $2,500

Too Many Helpers Blamed for Drop From Last Year

Nearly $2,500 was collected in the second annual walk for Development through the Fox Cities last May 27, Mary Hertel, a local walk coordinator, said today.

Between 250 and 300 young people followed a 25-mile route through the Fox Cities to raise money for selected projects and to create an awareness of the problems facing developing nations in the world.

Last year, 600 persons collected $10,000 walking over the same route.

Miss Hertel attributed the smaller showing in numbers and funds this year to a lack of coordination. Too many persons were working on too many aspects of the march, she said. The number of sponsors was down from last year also.

Five Projects

The $2,500 will be divided among two foreign and three domestic projects and educational aims of the international Young World Development, the youth branch of the Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

Forty-two and one-half per cent of the funds will be divided between a black liberation movement in Mozambique, a province of Portugal on the southeastern coast of Africa, and a hospital and refugee center in Quang Nai province of South Vietnam.

Another 42 1/2 per cent of the money raised during the walk will go to La Raza, for support of the Mexican-American group's newspaper; Casa Clara, for remodeling expenses at Appleton's sole halfway house for women; and Friends, to defray operating expenses of the city's 24-hour emergency telephone service.

The remaining 15 per cent of the funds will go to the Freedom from Hunger Foundation for the printing of pamphlets, books and other materials and to perform research on foreign and domestic projects.

Miss Hertel said the Appleton branch of YWD would be severing its ties with the international organization, based in Washington, D.C., in order to have more money to donate directly to specific projects.

Pilot Project Seeks New Use for Waste From Paper Mills

BY CLIFF MILLER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The first stage of a pilot project aimed at helping Consolidated Papers, Inc., and similar mills solve water pollution problems went into operation today, with an international audience.

The $151,000 pilot plant project being directed by the Institute of Paper Chemistry is aimed at recovering chemicals that presently are wasted in the pulp manufacturing process and turning them into profitable by-products.

The chemicals are contained in the vapors generated when strong acid sulfite liquor from the pulping process is condensed. Consolidated was a pioneer mill in the field of condensing the spent liquor and converting a large portion of it to useable by-products.

According to Averill J. Wiley, chief of the paper institute's effluent processes group, who is in charge of the Consolidated project, the new process if effective would provide a second-stage to the condensing plant that has been operating at the Appleton Mill since 1953.

Past Research

The Institute also participated in the research that led to installation of the present condensing plant, from which spray-dried sulfite liquor is converted to by-products such as binders for animal feed pellets and oil well-drilling "mud."

The mill has until next July 1 to come up with a solution to its waste disposal problem, under a Department of Natural Resources (DNR) order that was recently extended past a previous deadline on Dec. 31 of this year.

Company officials have stated that the mill will be closed unless there is a technological breakthrough in waste treatment, and an improvement in the pulp and paper industry economic picture.

The current project is a crash program financed by the DNR, the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the paper institute and 10 pulp and paper corporations.

According to William Durdell, mill manager, success in the pilot project will solve only a portion of the mill's pollution abatement problem, but will make a significant dent.

Other Problems

Still to be dealt with would remain the waste from the bleach plant, which he said produces the major share of the oxygen-consuming (BOD) waste currently entering the Fox River from the mill.

The mill might be able to direct some of its waste to the city sewage treatment system if the present output can be scaled down to manageable proportions through efforts such as the pilot study, he explained.

The pilot project draws highly volatile vapors from the sulfite liquor condensing operation and puts them through a three-stage process that yields usable chemicals and water.

The volatiles are first "steam-stripped," subjecting them to contact with steam which traps them. The second stage is an evaporation process that separates some of the chemicals from the water, and the third stage uses activated carbon to absorb remaining chemicals.

The chemicals being recovered include acetic acid, ethyl and methyl alcohol, furfural and sulphur dioxide.

Kenneth Baierl, former chemical engineer with the Scott Paper Co. plant at Everett, Wash., explained that it is hoped that chemicals retrieved at each stage of the process will pay for that segment of the process.

Baierl and B. F. Lueck, a long-time paper institute pollution abatement researcher, in the Consolidated project are putting together approaches each has worked on separately.

Previous research has been done in laboratories where chemical processes function un-

5 Burned in Boat Explosion

Blast Came Soon After Refueling at Oshkosh Marina

OSHKOSH — An explosion and fire aboard a motorboat caused burn injuries to three persons and destroyed the craft on Lake Winnebago near the Pioneer Inn about 3 p.m. Sunday.

Six persons were on the 24-foot inboard boat owned and operated by John F. Bergstrom, 1155 Lake St., Neenah. Also on board were Mrs. Diane Bergstrom, 25; John F. Hemes, 25; Nassau Street, Menasha; his wife Vickie, 24, and Hans and Heide Hemes, both 2 years old.

Mrs. Hemes was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, suffering from burns to both feet and lower legs. Mrs. Bergstrom was treated for burns to the left foot and lower leg and released from Theda Clark. They were transferred to Theda Clark from Mercy Medical Center in Oshkosh. Heide Hemes was treated at Mercy for burns to both feet and also was released.

The boat had just refueled at the Pioneer Marina and was about one-fourth mile offshore in the lake when it exploded.

The passengers were rescued from the water by boaters in the area.

Two companies of the Oshkosh Fire Department were sent to the scene but by the time they arrived, two men in another boat had extinguished most of the fire.

The boat drifted toward shore and was pulled from the water at Evaline Street, north of the Pioneer.

The cause of the explosion is being investigated. There were no other witnesses to the incident.

Man Stranded On Sandbar Is Rescued

SHERWOOD — What started out as an early morning swim today nearly ended in tragedy for five Fox Valley residents when one of their party was left stranded on a sandbar near the High Cliff State Park boat marina near here.

According to reports, the five persons had been swimming from their two boats which they had taken out from the Town of Harrison public boat landing near the park. When they returned about 2:45 a.m., they discovered one of the men was missing. Each boat driver reportedly thought he was in the other's boat.

Before seeking help, they went back out onto the lake to search for the man but were unsuccessful. They summoned the help of a park ranger-on duty, Lee Twist, who scanned the lake with a truck spotlight. He could not find the missing

14 Die in Weekend Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three members of a Merrill family and two of their relatives were killed in a two-car automobile collision early Sunday as 14 persons died on Wisconsin roads and the annual state fatality toll zoomed to 668, compared with 639 at this time last year.

Walter Tesch Jr., 29, of Merrill; his wife, June, 29; their son, Daniel, 3; Mrs. Tesch's brother, Randall Schmidt, 13, of Merrill; and Tesch's brother, Ronald Tesch, 26, of Wausau were killed as authorities said they returned home from a neighborhood baseball game in suburban Wausau.

Marathon County Coroner Marvin Nelles said all were occupants in the car Mrs. Tesch was driving west on State 29 in the Walworth County road and flipped over.

Foggy conditions were blamed for two other weekend deaths. Donna McIvor, 45, of Kenosha lost her life Sunday when the car she was in crashed into an embankment in heavy fog at the intersection of State 174 and a county road in the Town of Pleasant Prairie. A three-car crash on fog-cloaked U.S. 51 south of Merrill early Saturday killed Geraldine Fleishman, 15, of Merrill, who was a passenger in one of the cars.

John Luedtke, 28, of Plainfield died Saturday when his car left U.S. 51 in Portage County, struck a tree stump and rolled over.

Two persons died in a crash of their cars in Waterloo Friday night. The victims were Harold Samp, 59, of Milwaukee and Henry Wild Sr. of rural Marshall.

A 14-year-old Zinda boy, Jon Smith, was also killed Sunday when the car he was in left a

Fair-Goers Still Small in Number

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin State Fair officials had plenty of time to handle exposition visitors at the entry gates Sunday, but had more than they could handle during the afternoon at the first aid trailer.

Total attendance lagged far behind last year's three-day total of 310,022 with the 102,184 persons who came Sunday in 80-plus degree weather, compared with 111,602 on that day in 1971, bringing the cumulative figure to only 243,630.

Fair director Roy Ullius said heat exhaustion cases were being brought to the exposition's first aid trailer during the afternoon faster than nurses could keep track of them. None were reported to be serious, however, and Ullius said no one had been hospitalized.

The fair director said the spirit of those at the fair been great, despite the rain which fell opening day and the hot, muggy weather which then engulfed the fairgrounds.

"I just came from the Coliseum and the livestock barns and I never saw them so completely jammed with visitors," he said at one point Sunday. "This is clearly an indication that urban people desire to know what is going on in the farm communities throughout the state."

More than 7,000 persons jammed the Coliseum to watch the draft horse show as Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Haxom of Waverly, Iowa, were judged to have the best Percheron team.

Other winners were Jacob Ruby of Brookfield with his Belgian team; James Groves of Pecatonica, Ill., Clydesdale team; Herbert Schneckloth, unicorn; and Elroy Brass of Elkhart Lake, men's single cart.

Rural Omro Man Drowns in River

OMRO, Wis. (AP) — The body of a rural Omro man was recovered today from the Fox River.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore said Michael O'Reilly, 30, drowned while swimming in the river early today.

The "Cross and Crown," Fox Valley Lutheran High School's yearbook, was distributed Sunday, giving the students, who come from many communities, an opportunity to meet their friends during the summer. After the annuals were distributed, the youths gathered on the grass behind the school, left, for the traditional signing ceremony. Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON—Democrats running for the state Senate will campaign with special ardor during the new campaign season, having heard so often that their party has not controlled the upper house of the legislature during their memory — or the memory of most of their parents.

But one of them will have more incentive to exert himself than ever before in his life.

Sen. Fred Risser of Madison, indeed, will have two pressing reasons to hope for election day prosperity for his party. With that result, he may attain the fond hope of a vital change in title, from minority floorleader of the house to majority leader.

There is another and more crucial motivation for him. He confronts what probably will be the most difficult test in his 15-year career, according to early calculations.

His challenger is Mrs. Betty Smith, wife of a respected Madison lawyer and long-time Republican activist and a leader in her own right. A long-time Republican worker and a founder of the state Women's Political Caucus, she can attract votes in the usually liberal Madison campus community and elsewhere that would go to Risser as a Democrat in a "normal situation," in an early assessment.

The idea of discrimination in Washington in the doling out of federal dollars has been heard often, but studies by non-political sources have concluded that there is little that can be done about it, given the state's comparative economic status, its enterprise in supporting its own services, state and local, and other factors.

The usual response to complaints about federal financial discrimination against Wisconsin is to propose a state-operated Washington office to "lobby" the bureaucratic establishment and the Congress. But several governors who considered it rejected it as impracticable and wasteful.

There is now talk that Gov. Patrick J. Lucey is intrigued with the idea of such an office, and in fact recently dispatched an agent to invite Mary Lou Burg, the Democratic national committeewoman for the state, to establish and run it. But Miss Burg declined. She is committed to remain on the staff of the Democratic national committee, she has informed the governor.

Note: Some governors maintain such offices as a part of their personal political apparatus. If Lucey proceeds with his idea, given his recent revelation of national political aspirations, there will be those who will inevitably conclude that he is as interested in Washington press exposure as in federal aid dollars.

Progress Report: After it was related here recently that the University of Wisconsin ordered 100 special auto registration plates for use of its ranking officers and regents, officials of the state Department of Transportation hurriedly ordered the production of up to 900 more of them for distribution to any UW staffers willing to pay the extra $3 for the plates with special symbols.

The new Wisconsin plates have a red-on-white color combination (the school's colors) but the special plates for the university also carry low numerals with the "UW" prefix.

Notwithstanding, they are not best sellers in spite of vigorous promotion by the university administration. At last count, only 102 of them had been sold beyond the initial request of President John Weaver for 100.

Mark Barbash, one of the best known and most effective of the leaders of the Young Democratic organization of the state and one of Lucey's McGovern for President workers in the executive office during recent months, has left for new employment.

He has joined the Washington office staff of Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, who is usually described as the best friend in the senate of the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Complaints about the distribution of party funds to legislative candidates of the two Wisconsin political parties have been heard in every election campaign since substantial state party headquarters efforts in legislative elections began.

The party bursars typically are required to ration the money available and do not always do so equally. Their pragmatic requirements tend to emphasize the districts in which their nominees have a reasonable chance to win on the basis of electoral performance in the past, which often means that the predictable victor and the aspirant in a district where the record shows his chances are doubtful do not get fair treatment.

In Republican politics currently, some grumbling is already audible about the prospective distribution of available legislative campaign funds. Minority Leader John Shabaz of Waukesha County is the adviser upon whom the GOP financiers will lean, and some of the middle-of-the-road and more liberal legislative candidates of the party already are grumbling about their worry that he will put more emphasis behind the drives of more conservative candidates.

Before his retirement as secretary and manager of the Wisconsin Towns Association, Ben Hanneman hired Oscar Laper, former Sauk County assemblyman, as assistant secretary. It is supposed that Laper will be a candidate for the ranking position in the rural government lobby. But there have been indications that association Vice President Ed K. Krueger of rural Shawano may be interested also.

President of the organization is Kenneth Schricker of Spooner, one of the more effective state Assembly representatives who has been elected from upper Wisconsin lately.

Officials have not yet mentioned it, but the University of Wisconsin Regents soon will select a "search and screen" committee in anticipation of the retirement next year of the second ranking state university head in the state.

Joseph Martin Klotsche of the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee is the dean of the university chancellors and will step down next June when he reaches the mandatory retirement age for administrators.

The selection process may very well involve a struggle, not only because of the importance of the institution in the Wisconsin metropolis but because of its declared urban affairs mission in the urban southeastern part of the state. Inevitably, there will be partisan repercussions among Republicans and Democrats, as attentive university affairs watchers see it.

The lines to be drawn will not be automatically partisan, but will involve in part party power and partisan issues. Lucey will have a natural concern about the choice for command of the second most important university in the government he heads, remembering that a Republican board hired UW System President John C. Weaver soon before his election.

Natural choices for the committee that will direct the recruiting and screening will be the two regent activists from Milwaukee, Republican John Pelisek and Democrat Bertram McNamara, the former a board member who was involved in the last major selection, the latter an appointee of the Democratic governor who has strong feelings about the development of the Milwaukee campus and labor's voice and role there. McNamara, the former a board organization officer.

Neenah Curbs May Become Ramps

NEENAH — A new state law, requiring that all sidewalks have ramps at intersections for persons confined to wheelchairs, may mean that the city will have to knock out brand new curbs to install the ramps.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, was checking into the law this morning to see if the curbs, already installed on three street projects would have to be torn out.

The new law, passed during the 1971 legislative session, went into effect on May 7, according to a State Division of Highways spokesman. The state, on May 18, issued a directive to all its district offices, to make sure that the ramps were installed.

He said the division told its district engineers that the ramps should be installed with change orders, on projects already underway where the curb had not been laid.

Harold Fiedler, Green Bay, district engineer and who will take over as state engineer on Oct. 1, said the law leaves very little flexibility for interpretation.

"It's a blanket statute which says that all sidewalks will be ramped at intersections," he said.

Ed Byrkit, deputy state engineer, Madison, agreed with Fiedler's argument that the requirement should have allowed some flexibility.

"It may create more problems that it solves," Fiedler said, adding that it would "encourage bicyclists to use sidewalks and could pose problems during the winter with ice and snow."

Although the state was aware of the new statute, there's been an apparent lack of communication between the state and local municipalities. Bryan said he had not been aware of the new requirement.

Meanwhile, new curb has been installed on W. Cecil Street, Wilson Street and Tulbar Road. The ramp requirement may force the city to return, knock out the new curb and install the 40-inch ramps.

Fiedler said he would have preferred that the law would have "given us some discretion to install the ramps where wheelchair traffic could be expected." However, the statute is specific in calling for "at least two ramps 40-inches wide, for every lineal block" wherever sidewalk is installed.

And the law blankets all street projects, including the state, counties, cities, villages and towns.

"We may have to go back and knock the curb out and install the ramps," Bryan said today while he was checking out the new law.

Republicans Plan Miami Beach Parley

Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, will lead a 6th District contingent of six delegates to the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach next week.

The makeup of the delegation will include two from Winnebago County — Steiger and Mrs. Mary Ising of Oshkosh. There is no one in the delegation from Neenah-Menasha, however.

Steiger will be going to Miami Beach as the district's GOP congressman and co-chairman of the Young Voters to Re-elect the President Committee. Mrs. Ising is there as an outgoing member of the Republican National Committee.

A newcomer to the convention will be Ralph Kraut, Green Lake, who is, among other things, chairman of the board of directors of Giddings and Lewis, Fond du Lac, and a Nixon campaigner. His alternate delegate will be Mrs. Bert Sisk, Fond du Lac, who was recently named chairman of the 6th District party organization.

Mrs. Ising's alternate will be Mrs. Mark Everix of Chilton, another newcomer to national conventions who is also state chairman of the GOP Women's Federation. Steiger's alternate is Jim Harff of Sheboygan, an executive who has been at a national GOP convention before and is working for Nixon's re-election.

The six people are strongly united in their desire to see President Richard Nixon re-elected in 1972. They have been strong backers of the President in the past.

der ideal conditions. The tests at Consolidated mark the first time the processes have been applied in actual "in-stream" conditions in a pulp mill.

The pilot plant is designed to treat about one-sixtieth of the total plant output, or an average of 1.5 gallons per minute of condensates.

The steam-stripping stage of the pilot plant went into operation today, and the evaporation and absorption units are expected to go into operation.

Meeting Set
Wiley said a meeting between representatives of the corporations and government agencies contributing to the financing of the project is scheduled for Sept. 6 to examine the installation.

On hand today as the pilot plant began its initial operation was the first of a number of Scandinavian specialists in the field of pulp and paper technology and waste treatment who are expected to visit Consolidated this week while attending technical meetings.

Tuovo Miemioja, managing director and owner of a Helsinki, Finland, firm specializing in industrial and hospital sanitary waste treatment facilities, toured the Consolidated mill with Wiley. Miemioja also visited the plant in 1948 when pilot tests were being conducted on processes now used in the existing condensing plant.

Others expected this week include Dr. Erik Snellman, a specialist in plywood and particle board adhesives for a Helsinki consulting firm, and Prof. Anders Bjorkman, director of the Institute of Kemindustrial, Danish Technical University, Copenhagen, Denmark.

The new group will be the Wisconsin Education Political Action Committee. It will be supported by voluntary contributions from educators if it is put into operation this fall, Halverson said.

Local Residents Attend Annual Suzuki Institute

STEVENS POINT — Eight Appleton residents were among the many from throughout the state to attend the second annual American Suzuki Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

Taking part in the session on music in general and the violin in particular, were Judith Kurka, Judy McDowell, music students; Lucille Orblison, and Gary and Sheryl Putman, string instructors, and David and Eric Veum and Ray Ostwald, music pupils.

The Suzuki method is based on the belief that any child can learn how to play an instrument given the proper instructor, good environmental conditions and parental help. It stresses repetition and memorization.

The Appleton school system was one of the first and is still one of a few in Wisconsin to have the program for preschool and primary children.

CHILTON — A Hotline for Calumet County is being organized by a group of approximately 30 persons, according to John Salm, committee chairman for the county's Mental Health Association.

Hotline will be an independent, non-profit service, staffed by volunteers and financed by fund-raising activities.

The primary purpose of the organization is to establish and operate a call-in telephone center to provide an informational and referral service to persons in the area in crises situations who want to remain anonymous.

Although the initial service may be abridged, the ultimate goal of the organization, says Salm, is to offer year-round, 24-hour a day service with qualified persons on the lines at all times. The Hotline number will be toll free.

Hotline is designed to provide a listening ear or referral service for persons with problems ranging from drugs or alcohol to draft counseling and unwanted pregnancy. Salm stressed that the service also will be used for minor problems.

Hotline also will act to stimulate public awareness through educational and informational programs such as public speakers and seminars. It also will try to provide any additional services that county residents feel would be beneficial to their community.

The Calumet center hopes to remove some of the crises responsibility from other county agencies.

A seminar on establishing the Hotline center ends today.

He found the man, who is a nonswimmer, standing on a sandbar several hundred yards out in the lake and north of the marina. Twist brought him to shore where he was reunited with the group.

Names of the five persons were not recorded, according to conservation warden Richard Streng.

Calumet Will Hear Petitions On Zoning

SHERWOOD — A public hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Calumet County Courthouse by the county zoning board of adjustments to consider a petition of First Central Mortgage, Inc., for the construction of a machine shed in the Town of Harrison.

The petitioner is requesting a variance to highway setback requirements of 65 feet from town road centerline to 40 feet from the centerline.

At the same time, the board also will consider a petition of Alex Thiel, route 2, Hilbert, for a variance to side yard setback requirement in the Shoreland jurisdictional area in the Town of Stockbridge from 10 foot requirement to 7.3 feet. He plans to build an addition onto his garage in the town.

Persons interested in the matters are advised to appear and speak at the hearing.

Youth's Guernsey Is Grand Champion

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A cow which won the Wisconsin State Fair's junior-show Guernsey milk award has also been chosen grand champion female Guernsey.

The titlist, owned by John Lurvey, 17, of Baraboo, had been cited for having produced 16,500 pounds of milk with 859 pounds of butter fat in 305 days.

The winner was last fall's reserve grand champion at the World Dairy Expo's Guernsey exposition in Madison.

Sauk County won the Guernsey herd title, followed by Waukesha County and St. Croix County.

Brown Swiss
Nancy Erdman of Fort Atkinson was named senior showman.

The grand champion female among the Brown Swiss was shown by Jacqueline Jacobson, 17, of Burlington.

Gerrit DeBruin of Monroe was named senior showman.

Austerman Hurls 4-1 Decision for 14th Triumph

BY GENE LILLGE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Appleton spotted Danville four first-inning runs and failed to make ground against the Midwest League's winningest pitcher as the Foxes dropped a 4-1 decision to the Warriors Sunday night at Goodland Field.

Carl Austerman picked up his 14th win, against five losses, as he checked the Foxes on 4 hits before being relieved in the seventh.

The Appleton loss, coupled with Waterloo's 13-2 romp of Burlington Sunday, dropped the Foxes one game behind the Royals in the Midwest League's Northern Division.

Appleton starter and loser Dave Diamond (1-2) lasted only one inning as the Warriors touched him for four runs on four hits, a sacrifice fly, and an error.

Blasts Homer
Jerry Devins started the fireworks for Danville as he lifted Diamond's fourth offering of the night over the left field fence.

Duane Espy and Sixto Lezcano followed with singles and Charley Moore reached on an error by first baseman Marty Morrison with Espy scoring.

Alex Rodriguez batted in Lezcano with an infield hit over second base, and Salvador Rosario lofted a long fly to center field to score Moore with the fourth run.

The Foxes loaded the bases with one out in the first inning but managed only one run on Bob Stolarick's ground out to second.

Both teams were retired in order in the next three innings. Curt Best had taken over for Diamond in the second inning. The Foxes were also retired in order in the fifth.

Retires Next 2
Danville got back-to-back singles by Devins and Espy with one out in the fifth, but Best retired the next two batters to get out of the inning.

Dan Rourke opened the Appleton sixth with a single to left, but was not advanced.

Cowboys Lose Roger Staubach

Shoulder Injury Sidelines QB for 2 to 3 Months

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys made plans today to defend their Super Bowl championship without their inspirational leader, quarterback Roger Staubach, who underwent surgery Sunday for a shoulder separation and will be lost two or three months.

Coach Tom Landry said, "The only problem we have is depth at quarterback."

Second-string quarterback Craig Morton filled in for Staubach Saturday night after the second-quarter injury and threw three touchdown passes while completing 9 of 10 in a 27-13 National Football League exhibition victory over Los Angeles.

Tremendous Blow
"Morton played a great game and is a great quarterback," said Landry. "Roger obviously took it as a tremendous blow. He was counting on having a great season. He ran three or four times in the first half, but it is plays like that and his competitive nature that make him great."

Staubach could have stepped out of bounds, but instead, charged into Ram middle line-backer Marlin McKeever on the end of a 9-yard gain.

Dr. Marvin Knight, who performed the 90-minute surgery on Staubach, said the repair of the torn ligament and capsule was "excellent."

"Knowing Roger, he won't be in the hospital long," Knight said.

The only other quarterback on the Cowboy team is rookie Maurice Daigeneau of Northwestern who played briefly Saturday night against the Rams.

Leonard Waits, Coasts to Win in 'Bettenhausen'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Joe Leonard ran his winning streak to three in the United States Auto Club's championship division Sunday with a victory in the Tony Bettenhausen 200-mile race at the Wisconsin State Fair.

And, as has become his habit, the veteran driver from San Jose, Calif., waited to assert his dominance until several cars faster than his Parnelli-turbocharged Offenhauser had been done in by one thing or another. But there was a difference this time from his recent triumphs at Michigan and Pocono.

Bobby Unser, who had set qualifying records at every USAC track in six previous events this season, chose not to race. And Gary Bettenhausen, after whose late father the race was named, was unable to drive because of a broken arm he sustained Saturday night in a sprint car accident at Toledo, Ohio.

So the only waiting Leonard had to do was for his Vel's-Parnelli Jones teammates, Mario Andretti and Al Unser.

Andretti drove to any early lead over Al Unser, with Leonard moving into third place. But Al Unser lasted for only 79 laps, when he went out with a broken rear suspension member.

Then, on the 108th lap, the brakes on Andretti's car locked as he headed into his pit for a fuel stop. He slammed into a guardrail, pulling off a hose from the fuel storage tank in the pit next to his and touching off a flash fire.

Andretti was not hurt, but his car was unable to continue, and Leonard, although troubled with a car that was not handling properly, had smooth sailing the rest of the way. He finished four laps ahead of Billy Vukovich's Eagle-turbocharged Offenhauser at an average speed of 111.652 miles per hour to win $14,534 of the $59,225 purse.

Dan Pleased but Cautious

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — How much... or how little did it mean?

That was the prevailing question at the Packers' headquarters here Sunday as Coach Dan Devine and his staff began a day-long analysis of Saturday night's somewhat unexpected victory over the AFC champion Dolphins in neighboring Miami.

Even to the arch conservatives in evidence, that 14-13 decision had to be of salutary significance. But the general tenor was one of caution. Predicated on the obvious premise that it was "only an exhibition game."

Devine, quietly pleased to find his team 2-0 at this preseason stage did admit, however, that it should have a positive effect upon his massive rebuilding project.

3 Offensive Charges
"I think it's got to mean something," he said during a leisurely appraisal over Sunday brunch. "We started off with the idea that we were going to look at people and I think the players knew we were going to substitute. We started three different guys on offense (Bill Hayhoe, Dave Davis and Len Garrett) to begin with."

"All I asked of whoever played was their top effort and I promised we'd still try to do what we planned to do... Of course, the Dolphins played a lot of people, too, although I thought they played most of their best people defensively most of the way."

What struck him most forcibly, Devine confided, was the overall approach. "The guys seemed to want to win," he said. "It's not the same ball club that played down here last winter (and lost, 27-6)."

"But, before I get too carried away, I have to say I had some disappointments, too. The biggest one was our failure to stop their sweep on the goal line twice. Really, that's the only thing I talked about at halftime was the defensive."

Couldn't Run One
"Everybody judges a football team differently... To me, the sweep is one of the measuring sticks of football. Last night, the Dolphins could run one when we knew they were going to run one and we couldn't run one when we surprised them with it."

You can't compete for championships that way.

"We're on as much of a 5-year plan as Cincinnati was... I'm not trying to run down our team — I'm just trying to be realistic."

The impression that his athletes are rapidly becoming "physical — a lack of zest for contact was one of his continuing concerns in 1971 — was manifestly encouraging to Devine.

"I was pleased with the hitting," he conceded. "I noticed in the paper here today that some of their players mentioned they also were impressed with our hitting."

The Dolphins' Jake Scott and Karl Noonan were particularly impressed. Scott, impaled by John Brockington's forearm on a safety blitz, had to be helped from the field in the second quarter and did not return.

Precautionary Measure
Noonan, who took a blow directly over the heart when he was knocked unconscious by Willie Buchanon's lethal tackle, was taken to the hospital as a precautionary measure. He was felled while scrambling to retrieve center Bob Demarco's errant snap on what would have been Garo Yeprehian's game-tying conversion attempt in the last two minutes.

Devine also was heartened by the success of the reverse and option maneuvers employed in Saturday night's triumph, notable among them a 33-yard excursion by rookie Leland Glass en route to the Packers' decisive touchdown in the second quarter.

"We're going to do a lot more in this area," he said. "I've had as many as five or six options in offense at one time in the last. They all look pretty much the same from the press-box, Turn to Page 12, Col. 1

Tigers Split With Tribe

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Hats off to Billy Martin!

Hoping to wake his slumping team, the Detroit Tiger manager went with a pot-luck batting order Sunday dictated by a hat drawing.

The names came out spelling success for the Tigers as they stopped a four-game losing streak with a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the first game of a doubleheader.

"It served the purpose. It was supposed to relax the guys—and it worked," said Martin, who went back to his regular batting order in the second game and lost 9-2. Ed Brinkman, a .205 batter at game time who usually hits in the eighth spot, opened in the cleanup position and came up with a crucial hit as the Tigers scored twice in the sixth inning.

Taylor, usually a leadoff or No. 2 hitter, batted fifth and singled home Brinkman with the winning run. Horton, who has been batting sixth this year, was No. 3 and came through with a homer, triple and single that started the winning rally.

The split dropped the Tigers into third place in the zany American League East race. They are merely one percentage point behind the New York Yankees, the hottest team in baseball who moved into second after sweeping a doubleheader from the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 and 6-4.

The Baltimore Orioles held first place in the East by 1 1/2 games by crushing the Boston Red Sox 6-2. Things are no less uncertain in the West, where the Oakland A's climbed into first place by one game after beating the Chicago White Sox 3-0. The White Sox were in the driver's seat to win the opener.

Second baseman Tony Taylor and left fielder Willie Horton were two other batters who helped while hitting somewhere for less than 24 hours.

Rangers in
In the other American League games Sunday, the Texas Rangers blasted the Kansas City Royals 13-4 and the Minnesota Twins stopped the California Angels 4-3.

The Tigers should have stayed with the hat-trick formula in the nightcap—although the way the Indians were hitting, it didn't really matter how Martin stacked his lineup. Ray Fosse and Graig Nettles drove dians took the second game and left town with three victories in the four-game series in Detroit. Bobby Grich belted a homer and Johnny Oates knocked in two runs with a double in a four-run seventh that powered Baltimore over Boston.

Vida Blue pitched the Oakland A's back into first place with a four-hitter. Dave Duncan and Bert Campaneris provided the offense with home runs.

The Rangers buried the Royals under a 17-hit attack that included four base hits by Dick Billings, who drove in five runs. Frank Howard also hit a two-run homer for the Rangers, a 430-foot shot.

Rookie catcher Glenn Borgmann capped a three-run sixth inning that carried Minnesota over California.

Oregon Clothing '9' Retains State Title

OSHKOSH — Defending champion Oregon Clothing, of Oshkosh, tallied five runs in the seventh inning to edge past Raabe's, of Milwaukee, 9-8, to take the championship of the state softball tourney here Sunday.

Oregon Clothing, which won five straight games in the tourney, and runner-up Raabe's, will both be represented in the World Softball Tourney in Kimberly, beginning Friday evening.

Hal Hainory got a pinch-hit single to drive in two runs and Bruce Erickson slapped a 1-bagger to push home to more runs for Oregon in the decisive seventh.

In the finals of the losers' bracket, Raabe's edged Ben-five straight games in the tourney, and runner-up Raabe's, will both be represented in the World Softball Tourney in Kimberly, beginning Friday evening.

Carlton, Pirates Win Again; Cubs Whip Mets, 7 to 4

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Carlton was once again all but untouchable—and it's getting to look the same for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Carlton, Philadelphia's veteran left-hander who has been baffling the rest of the National League for the past 2½ months, did it again Sunday, stopping Montreal on just three hits for his 19th victory of the baseball season and 14th in a row as the Phillies won the opener of their doubleheader 2-1. The Expos rebounded to take the second game 8-3.

The Pirates, meanwhile, silenced by St. Louis' Rick Wise 2-0 in their opener, got back in the groove in the nightcap by beating the Cardinals 7-5 to widen their East Division lead to a solid 10 games.

Reds Triumph
In National League single games, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 9-4, San Francisco edged Houston 4-3, the Chicago Cubs whipped the New York Mets 7-4 and Los Angeles defeated San Diego 5-3.

"I didn't have good stuff and I couldn't get the slider over," Carlton said after raising his record to 19-6, best in the league, and fanned eight Expos to raise his strikeout total to 240, best in the majors. "I was lucky to get away with it."

"I'm not thinking about records or strikeouts," he added when reminded that he's just five victories short of Rube Marquard's 19 straight triumphs, set in 1912 with the old New York Giants. "I want the win," Carlton said. "Those other things take care of themselves."

The Phils took care of him with a pair of first-inning runs, coming on Willie Montanez' double and Greg Luzinski's single. Carlton lost his no-hit and shutout bid in the fourth on Bob Bailey's home run.

Montreal pushed across four runs in the fourth inning and three more in the ninth to gain the split, saddling Billy Champion with his 10th straight defeat. Balor Moore and reliever Mike Marshall teamed for a four-hitter for the Expos.

"They're going to be tough to catch," St. Louis Manager Ed Schoendienst said of the Pirates. "They've got too much on the club. Of course, it's possible," he added, "but they've been playing well without Roberto Clemente and he'll be back one of these days. They're 28 games over .500 and you've got to figure the odds are with them."

Steve Blass, who needed last-out relief help to record his 13th victory in the second game, added: "It's a good thing to be able to look forward to Clemente coming back and having us leading by eight, nine or 10 games." And Bucs Manager Bill Virdon chipped in with: "Of course, you can't replace Clemente—but we're not killing ourselves playing some of these other guys who are hitting .330 or .340."

Bucs Rally
The Pirates fell behind 4-0 in the third inning but, as Virdon put it, "they did a hell of a job coming back. They didn't quit." They scored three runs in the fourth inning, two of them on Milt May's double, then scored four more in the sixth, Al Oliver and Richie Hebner each doubling for one run and Bob Robertson singling for two more.

Wise, who came to the Cards in the deal that sent Carlton to Philadelphia, tossed a five-hitter to win the opener. "I don't make comparisons between Carlton and myself," he said. "Sports writers keep bringing it up, but it doesn't concern me. I just want to win for the Cardinals."

The Reds, opening their West Division lead over Houston to 5½ games, got two runs batted in apiece from Pete Rose and Cesar Geronimo and took advantage of 11 walks to beat the Braves.

Rookie Keys
Rookie Jim Willoughby of the Giants, recently recalled from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, scattered five hits to beat the Astros. It was his second victory, each of them coming on a Sunday against Houston. "Yeah, I've got something going," he quipped. "But I really don't know. The only two games I've pitched were on Sunday."

Randy Hundley hit his fifth home run and Ron Santo drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a bases-loaded walk to lead the Cubs past the Mets, who got homers from Tommie Agee and Willie Mays. The victory pulled the Cubs within a game of second-place New York in the East.

Willie Davis belted his 11th and 12th homers, the latter a three-run shot in the eighth inning, to power the Dodgers past one of these days. They're 28

Eau Claire '9' Wins Legion Tournament

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP) — Eau Claire won its third Wisconsin American Legion baseball tournament in four years Sunday night by defeating Stevens Point 4-2 with two runs in the ninth inning.

Ron Kopp got his second hit for Eau Claire to open the ninth, advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on an error with the winning run. A single by John Race sent across John Kaehler, who had walked.

Winning pitcher Paul Ausman, who had two hits and struck out 13 batters, was named the state American Legion player of the year and advanced with his Eau Claire teammates to the Great Lakes regional at Richmond, Ind., Aug. 23 against the Ohio legion champion.

Eau Claire advanced to the Wisconsin final by nipping Waupun 5-4 in 12 innings Sunday afternoon. Jeff Vorpahl singled in the ninth inning to pull Eau Claire into a 4-4 tie, and then Fred Kawell singled in the 12th to score Kaehler, who had doubled.

Peerless Nicklaus Pockets $50,000

By BOB GREEN
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — The glory dream of golf's Grand Slam is gone—at least for this season—but Jack Nicklaus is flirting now with a new goal: $300,000 in winnings for a single season.

"It would be great to win $300,000," Nicklaus said after pushing his winnings to $240,000 Sunday with his victory in the rich Westchester Golf Classic, "but I just don't know if I'll be able to play enough to do it."

"You always want to try to better yourself," said Nicklaus, who won a record $244,000 last year, "and I'd particularly like to do it this season for one reason: I feel that I'm a better golfer this year than I ever have been before in my life."

The record would back him up. In only 15 starts on the American tour this year the Golden Bear has won five—the Masters, U.S. Open, Bing Crosby Pro-am and Doral-Eastern prior to the Westchester—lost in a playoff for the title in the Tournament of Champions, failed by a stroke in the Jackie Gleason and tied for second at New Orleans.

And, of course, he lost by a single stroke in the British Open.

He's averaging $16,028 per start in the United States.

His record of $244,000 seems certain to go. But $300,000 could be difficult. "I'd have to win at least one more, maybe two, to do it," Nicklaus said. "I'd like to, but I really don't know if I'll play enough."

Nicklaus won the Westchester with almost casual ease, forging a beautifully-played four-under-par 68 in the final round on the Westchester Country Club course. The 18-under-par total of 270 was the best on the tour this season.

He was never headed in the hot and muggy final round and won by three strokes over Jim Colbert, who had a hole-in-one and an eagle three en route to a 65 and 273.

Dwight Nevel, the soft-spoken former Dallas fireman who was the surprise of the tournament, held on with a 71 and third place at 275. He later donated $2,000 from his purse of $17,750 to a Newburgh, N.Y., hospital.

Homero Blancas, with a 65 was alone at 276 with George Archer and DeWitt Weaver next at 277. Each had a final round 68.

Arnold Palmer, who scored his last individual triumph in this one a year ago, didn't qualify for the final two rounds. British Open champ Lee Trevino didn't compete. South African Gary Player, the PGA titleholder, closed his regular American schedule with a 72-285 and was far back.

Nicklaus held a two-stroke lead starting the final round and never faltered. He didn't miss a green—in fact, didn't miss one for the last 36 holes—strayed from only two fairways and made only one putt of any distance, an 18-foot effort for a birdie on the 17th hole.

Vought Wins Eau Claire Tennis Test

EAU CLAIRE — Don Vought copped the junior veterans singles title in the Eau Claire open Tennis Tournament over the weekend with a 6-2, 6-2 final win over Sheboygan's Tom Pedersen.

Vought, who had a first round bye, defeated Janis Tupesis, Cambridge, 6-2, 6-3, in the second round and in the third the Neenah Veteran took Sudad Baban, Janesville, 6-4, 6-0.

In the semi-finals, Vought won 6-2, 6-0 over Warren Swanson, a Richfield, Minn. player.

Swanson had earlier defeated Appleton's Del Hoefner, 6-3, 6-2, after Hoefner had earned a win by default in the second round.

Another Appleton player, Bob Luedike, lost to Aubrey Olson, Eau Claire, 6-3, 7-5, in the second round.

Ceiling Won't Be Changed on Pay Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board appears to be leaning toward retaining its 5.5-percent wage standard for the time being, even though a review of the ceiling is under way.

Nixon administration officials privately doubt there'll be any change in the figure up or down any time soon. For the record, they say the decision is up to the board.

The board meets jointly with the Price Commission today in a session that probably will trigger debate on changing the standard. Spokesmen emphasize a decision is not likely soon.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson last week said the board has taken a look at the 5.5-percent standard and feels it can "meet" the President's objective without changing that.

The arguments for keeping the standard at the present level center around the difficulties of next year's big round of labor negotiations.

Heavy Hitters
 "All the heavy hitters are up" is the way one member described the situation. Contracts in a number of the large industries, with the exception of steel, come up for bargaining in 1973.

Organized labor, which now is felt by some insiders to be tacitly accepting the wage-price-control system, might actively fight the program if the standard were lowered.

The board, as it has done from the start, is considering public acceptance, apparently feeling that too much tightening could well cause an outbreak of strikes, damaging the economic recovery.

Another argument against changing the standard is that the price picture, although greatly improved from a year ago, is still not good enough to justify lowering the figure.

Of particular disappointment is the continued rise in wholesale prices, which probably will be translated into higher consumer prices in the next several months.

Productivity Gain
 The Pay Board's standard assumes a 2.5-percent price rise and a 3-per-cent gain in productivity—worker output per man hour. Productivity rose 6 per cent in the second quarter, but the seven-member board appears inclined to await figures for later months. For the year, the productivity gain is expected to be closer to 4.5 per cent.

The 5.5-percent wage figure was adopted last year for the Phase 2 economic program that began Nov. 14. The figure is designed to cover aggregate, rather than individual, wage increases. On top of that, 0.7 per cent in qualified fringe benefits is permitted.

Palestine Guerrilla Father, Son Surrender

TEL AVIV (AP) — A father and son suspected of guerrilla activity walked into the police station in Bethlehem Sunday night and gave themselves up, a military spokesman announced today.

The two admitted belonging to the Al Fatah guerrilla organization and said they had smuggled arms from the Dead Sea region into Bethlehem in 1969.

Both were released in the custody of their family. Police said they were not wanted for arms smuggling and they had not participated in any other sabotage action.

Youths Can't Sleep in Miami Beach Park

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police today briefly forced about 50 demonstrators to abandon a makeshift campsite they had established in Flagler Park in anticipation of the Republican National Convention in July. The council has scheduled a meeting today to decide whether they will be allowed to camp there during the Republican convention, opening Aug. 21.

The youthful protesters, who set up the camp at dusk Sunday, left peacefully when police ordered them out of the park before dawn. They were allowed to return about sunrise, regardless of whether they received the camping permit.

Mine Kills British Soldiers in Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — Land mines. Their deaths brought the total of confirmed deaths to 508 in three years of religious strife in Northern Ireland; 68 of the dead this year have been British soldiers.

In its report earlier the army said "explosions were down to half and shooting incidents less than a quarter" in the two weeks since the troops opened up the Catholic districts in Belfast and Londonderry where the guerrillas had been in full control.

The troops have also uncovered scores of rifles and pistols, thousands of rounds of ammunition and more than 13,000 pounds of explosives.

The Army's increased mobility as a result of the operation resulted Sunday in the capture of another top commander of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing in Belfast.

Soldiers caught prison escapee Terence Clarke, 21, who broke out of the capital's Crumlin Road jail last year in a mass escape by IRA suspects.

Despite such board slapstick you are left with the impression that any invader of China would not find massed armies but a force spread among China's millions, living off the land and attacking in small, fast-disappearing units again and again. This apparently is a heritage of the success of Communists Long March and rise to power against the Nationalist forces of Chiang Kai-shek.

A tremendous propaganda campaign countrywide honors the army as the country's savior in war and peace.

Slogans abound everywhere. Broadcasts feature army songs. Editorials eulogize, and plays are written around simple themes. One about how girls plot to sneak a soldier's laundry, so they could wash it for him, was put on here by the 196th. It was repeated almost word for word by a group of 10-year-olds a couple of nights later, hundreds of miles away in Nanking.

A small playroom features the division's history in two books. They include the division's service in the Korean War.

The division has its own shoe repair shop, its own tailor shop where soldiers' uniforms are mended. A great effort is made to meet all the division's needs within itself.

The cost of maintaining the division must be a fraction of what it would be in the west. In the gunroom, it is proudly pointed out, every gun from the smallest rifle to machine gun has the same caliber bullets.

A show for visitors demonstrates accuracy in small-arms fire, which was excellent, bazooka fire and mine explosions.

Screaming Gunman Invades Muncie Church, Injures 2

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Screaming "they kicked my momma, they put the voodoo on her," a man burst into a crowded church and opened fire with a semiautomatic weapon, wounding the 80-year-old minister and one of 200 worshippers.

Police said Norman R. Wilson, 34, of Muncie, was taken into custody in connection with the shootings Sunday.

Detectors said Wilson was released recently from the Richmond State Hospital.

Bishop Oscar Sanders, pastor of Christ Temple Church, was hit in the hand by a .45-caliber bullet as he sat by the pulpit. Margaret McDugle, a member of the choir, was wounded in the chest and arm and was hospitalized in fair condition.

Police said that when Wilson, a six-footer weighing 250 pounds, burst into the church brandishing the weapon, stunned worshippers dropped to their knees. Delbert Anderson, 18, a member of the congregation, said they started "praying aloud for the gunman and our deliverance."

"Everyone was wailing and praying. It was hysteria, but we helped the injured and then prayed some more," Anderson said.

Surrendered Later

Deputy Police Chief Jack E. Turner said Wilson surrendered in a restaurant parking lot at Cowan, about five miles south of Muncie, as Turner and Homicide Detective Jack Stonebraker approached him with drawn weapons.

"Wilson was reaching for a gun as we approached, but evidently thought better of it," Turner said. "We arrested him in his car with a semiautomatic Commando gun on the front seat, a .38-caliber Rohrer pistol in his belt and a loaded single-shot 12-gauge shotgun on the back seat," Turner reported.

"We asked him if he did the shooting and he said he did." The deputy chief said Wilson told officers, "I did it because they kicked my momma, they put voodoo on her and I am a member of the Mafia."

Died Long Ago

Authorities said they believed Wilson's mother had died when he was about 4.

Police said that before the church shootings, Wilson fired a shotgun in a motel, fired into an apartment house and at the home of Muncie Councilman Albert Johnson.

No one was injured in these shootings, police said.

Bishop Sanders, who said he has been with the church 50 years, said, "If I had been standing I'd be dead."

Wilson was ordered held without bond on preliminary charges of attempted murder, assault and battery with intent to kill and violation of the 1935 state firearms act.

He was scheduled for an appearance Tuesday in magistrate's court.

Steelers Hope for 'Year of the Money'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS had one intercepted. This could be the "year of the money" for the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League. The Steelers, an also ran in the NFL for years, walloped the New York Jets 22-3 in one of nine NFL exhibition games over the weekend.

"I got a feeling this is the year of the money," commented Mean Joe Greene, the 270-pound defensive tackle, who led the defensive rush that overwhelmed Joe Namath, the Jets' star quarterback. Namath completed only three of 15 passes for 55 yards and

In the other pre-season games San Francisco beat Cleveland 20-13, Kansas City whacked St. Louis 24-14, Philadelphia downed New England 29-20, Cincinnati whipped Detroit 28-20, Minnesota humbled San Diego 24-13, Buffalo took New Orleans 24-21 and Green Bay edged Miami 14-13.

Baltimore plays at Oakland tonight to wind up the second week of the exhibition season. The New York Giants and Atlanta were not scheduled.

Veteran QB John Brodie made his first start of the season for the 49ers against the Browns in their Sunday game. He completed 16 of 26 passes, including a 31-yard scoring aerial to Gene Washington.

Safety Mike Simpson stopped a Cleveland threat late in the game by intercepting a Mike Phipps pass.

Clint Jones ran back the opening San Diego kickoff 99 yards for a Minnesota touchdown, the longest run of the weekend. Larry Marshall returned a punt 75 yards for a Kansas City touchdown. Other long runs were made by Jim Harris of New Orleans, 56 yards, and Tommy Casanova of Cincinnati, 58 yards.

A's Meet Orioles Next

OAKLAND (AP) — The end of the baseball season is four games closer and the Oakland A's still are one game ahead of the Chicago White Sox.

The A's open an eight-game road trip against the Baltimore Orioles in Baltimore tonight after breaking even in a four game weekend series against the Chicago White Sox.

"We're very happy with a split," manager Dick Williams of the A's said after Vida Blue pitched a four hitter to win 3-0 in the final game of the series Sunday.

"Considering our injured players, I'll take the split," Williams said. He had another reason to be pleased — a new two year contract from Oakland owner Charles O. Finley.

Finley rewarded Williams with a new contract at a "substantial raise in pay" as a vote of confidence after the A's lost 3-1 to the White Sox Saturday. It seemed to inspire the entire team to know Williams would be back.

5th Victory Blue's performance was reminiscent of a year ago when he won 24 games and was named the most valuable player in the American League. It was only his fifth victory of the season but he figures to win at least that many more down the stretch.

"I felt good, but it wasn't my best game," Blue said. "I guess it was good to win because we're back on top."

The A's had slipped out of the American League West lead for 24 hours after losing to Chicago Saturday. Blue's pitching plus home runs by Dave Duncan and Bert Campaneris put the A's back on top. Chicago manager Chuck Tanner said, "No team can win with one player. We couldn't do it with Richie Allen and Minnesota can't with Harmon Killebrew."

56,238 See Yanks Beat Brews Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, playing before the biggest American League crowd of the season, took a doubleheader from the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday, winning 5-3 and 5-4.

The victories were the seventh and eighth in the last ten games for the Yankees, and marked the second time in a week that they've swept a doubleheader from the Brewers.

They moved into second place in the American League East, one percentage point ahead of Detroit and a game and a half behind the Baltimore Orioles.

A bat day promotion helped draw 56,238 fans for Sunday's twin bill, and by the time the afternoon was over pennant fever had reached a new peak in Yankee Stadium.

Milwaukee first basemen

George Scott, who had five hits in nine trips to the plate for the afternoon, said he thought the Yankees "have got a good shot" at winning the pennant.

But Brewers Manager Del Crandall and General Manager Frank Lane both think the Orioles should take it because of their pitching, defense and power.

Brief Lead Scott helped give the Brewers a very brief lead in the opener, driving in a run with a single following a walk and an infield out. But the Yankees exploded for four runs in the second, sending losing pitcher Ken

Movie, Coronation End Summer Days at Parks

The Appleton Recreation Department will show the movie "A Dog of Flanders" at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at Jefferson School and at 1:30 p.m. the same day at Franklin School. The movie has been recommended for children and their parents alike at a cost of 15 cents and 25 cents respectively. Tuesday also will mark the citywide playground picnic and awards night at 5:30 p.m. when playgrounds are scheduled to introduce their kings and queens. These youngsters are chosen for their participation and service throughout the summer.

Assistant DA Begins Work in Criminal Court

James Morgan, a June graduate of the University of Wisconsin Law School, was sworn in this morning as an assistant district attorney to Dis. Atty. James R. Long.

Morgan, 25, takes the place of David Braithwaite, who assumed the duties of R. Thomase Cane in Long's office. Cane was recently appointed judge of County Court Branch 3, succeeding Judge Raymond P. Dohr.

Morgan, a native of Cedarburg, worked for attorney Archie Simonson of Madison after his graduation this spring. Simonson was elected to a county judgeship in Dane County. Morgan did his undergraduate work at UW-Madison. He is married and has one son.

Morgan will prosecute criminal and traffic cases in the district attorney's office.

Rudy Vallee Gets a Street for Himself

LAKE FOREST, Calif. (AP) — Rudy Vallee got half a loaf and celebrated the opening of Rue de Vallee, a street in a new mobile home development in this Orange County community.

At the opening ceremony Sunday, attended by about 400 fans, Vallee expressed continued disappointment at the Los Angeles City Council.

Assurance of Release Of POW's Is Claimed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says North Vietnamese leaders have assured him

that American prisoners of war will be released "when we stop this senseless bombing and get on with the business of peace."

Clark did not elaborate fully but did say he would speak in more detail at a news conference today.

Speaking briefly to newsmen Sunday night after his arrival here from Honolulu following a two-week tour of North Vietnam, Clark said the assurances were "both written and verbal" and that among those who gave him the pledges about the prisoners was the North Vietnamese foreign minister with whom he had a nearly three-hour conference.

"There is no question that the POWs will be released when we stop this senseless bombing and get on with the business of peace," said Clark, who served in the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The North Vietnamese have demanded a halt to bombing, withdrawal of American troops and other conditions as a prelude to ending the war and returning prisoners of war.

Clark said the POWs he visited during his tour was one of two reasons it was hard for him to return to the United States.

"It's good to be home, as it usually is," he said, "but it's harder than usual for two reasons."

"As an American it doesn't make me feel good to see the inhumane waste in Vietnam," he said he had seen churches, dikes, schools, and villages destroyed by U.S. bombing.

U.S. officials have denied that American warplanes have deliberately bombed North Vietnamese dikes or any other nonmilitary target.

And, he added, it was difficult "to leave the prisoners there — strong, good men who want to come home." He said the treatment of POWs he saw was "very humane and very good under the circumstances."

Agnew Defends U.S. Principles

Credibility With Allies Cited in Staying in War

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says that the principles that led America into the Vietnam war remain valid, "and no amount of George McGovern saying we should crawl on our knees to Hanoi will change that."

Agnew told 500 persons at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Sunday night that the war issue represents a clear departure between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

"If we left our allies they way George McGovern would have us leave them," Agnew said, "then America's diplomatic credibility, America's position in the world would be forfeited. Who in the world would want an ally that would run when the going got tough?"

In Nixon, he said, the nation has a President who is "not seeking instant popularity by doing the wrong thing. He is willing to see this matter through. It's not going to take much longer."

By Sept. 1, he said, the Nixon administration will have cut the troop level in South Vietnam to 39,000 from 565,000 in 1969.

"The winding down of the war has been accomplished without sacrificing the principle of American assistance to those who seek to resist aggression." That principle, he said, "is as valid tonight as it was the day the first American soldier set foot on Vietnam soil."

Waldheim Warns Big Powers Not to Attempt to Run World

Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — In his first broad policy statement since becoming secretary-general of the United Nations, Kurt Waldheim warns the big powers against trying to run the world without the world organization and asserts his own responsibility to speak out on life-or-death issues.

The 53-year-old Austrian, in office since Jan. 1, took his stand in the introduction to his first annual report on the work of the organization, issued by U.N. headquarters Sunday while Waldheim was visiting China.

It amounted to the secretary general's position toward President Nixon's talks in Peking and Moscow and to Nixon's recent blast at him for saying he had unofficial word from Hanoi that U.S. bombing had damaged North Vietnamese dikes and threatened "enormous human suffering."

Moral Responsibility
"No matter what criticisms or setbacks may arise," Waldheim declared, "the unwritten moral responsibility which every secretary-general bears does not allow him to turn a blind eye when innocent civilian lives are placed in jeopardy on a large scale."

He said "new and positive relationship" of the big powers is encouraging because it affords the possibility that at last the U.N. Security Council will work as it was supposed to work — with "the unanimity of the permanent members in matters affecting peace and security."

But he cautioned: "The idea of maintaining peace and security in the world through a concert of great powers... seems to belong to the 19th rather than to the 20th Century, where the process of technological advance and democratization is producing a new form of world society."

Small Powers
"The interests, the wisdom and the importance of the vast majority of medium and small powers cannot, at this point in history, be ignored in any endurable system of world order.

"The United Nations provides, or should provide, the means by which all nations, great and small, participate on a basis of sovereign equality in the political process of establishing and maintaining international peace and security."

Waldheim deplored tendencies to downgrade the United Nations and "to deride the organization as such for its failure immediately to succeed where everyone else has failed."

"The United Nations," he reminded, "is not an independent sovereign organization but an association of sovereign governments, and... its failures are also their failures."

International Practices
World War II came about because governments neglected the League of Nations and reverted to previous international practices, Waldheim said, and the danger of a third world war "will always exist" unless they now make "international political institutions work as they were intended to work."

He applauded the entry of the People's Republic of China into the United Nations but complained of "a certain unwillingness to involve the United Nations in the reconciliation of some conflicts," even with the Security Council now "more representative of the power realities in the world."

In that connection, he repeated his offer of last April to help settle the war in Vietnam and his statement of deep concern the month after that the United Nations could do nothing to end that war.

Waldheim welcomed the Soviet-American strategic arms limitation agreements. But he complained that the arms race has not been perceptibly slowed down and that the world is spending $200 billion a year on weapons now, against $187 billion a year in the 1960s.

He reported "encouraging developments" between India and Pakistan and promising intercommunal talks in Cyprus but no "comparable progress" in the Middle East.

Burger Advises Elimination of District Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger today proposed elimination of the special three-judge federal district courts that have served to quickly channel civil rights and civil liberties appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Burger told the American Bar Association in his third annual "State of the Judiciary" message that the panels have outlived their usefulness and are contributing to the high court's mounting work load.

The chief justice said there are other ways to rush an appeal to the Supreme Court "if the circumstances genuinely require."

Burger made his remarks in a prepared address.

Skip Appeals

Three-judge courts have existed for more than 60 years. At one time they served principally as a protection for the states against interruption of their programs by single federal judges. But in recent years they were noted mostly for providing quick help to protesters and others restricted in their activities by state officials.

The three-judge panels are set up by order of a single federal judge. The losing side can then appeal directly to the Supreme Court instead of first having to go through the U.S. Court of Appeals in the region.

Burger said that these appeals now account for one in every five cases heard by the Supreme Court.

"Direct appeal to the Supreme Court, without the benefit of intermediate review by the Court of Appeals has seriously eroded the Supreme Court's power to control its work load," he said.

He suggested Congress take steps to correct this and other "anomalies of federal jurisdiction."

The high court itself over the last few terms has increasingly thrown out appeals to it from three-judge panels and directed the slower process of going first to an appeals court.

In his report to the ABA's 95th annual meeting, the Chief Justice reiterated his complaint that the federal courts are suffering from "an unprecedented explosion of litigation."

He said 40 to 50 federal judges should be added now to the 620 on the bench. By 1980, he said, 900 probably will be needed.

As one means of holding down the load, he said, Congress should attach a "court impact statement" to every new law that would open the door to new kinds of suits.

"This is not to suggest," he said "that Congress reject legislation simply because it would increase litigation in the federal courts."

What he had in mind, Burger went on, was that "Congress consider the need of the court along with the need for new legislation."

In the last decade, he reported, the number of cases filed in the U.S. district courts has increased to 145,000 from 92,000; in the U.S. courts of appeal the increase was to 14,500 from 4,200, and in the Supreme Court there were 4,500 cases this past term, contrasted with 2,400 in 1962.

GOP Pledges Negotiations

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers pledged the administration today to strive for a negotiated Vietnam settlement instead of the "immediate and complete withdrawal" promised by the Democrats.

Addressing the opening hearing of the Platform Committee of the Republican National Convention, Rogers lauded the peace moves made by President Nixon and said:

"As our military involvement (in Vietnam) ends we will continue to provide economic support and military supplies to South Vietnam to prevent a military takeover by North Vietnam."

"Thus the political future of Vietnam will be left to the Vietnamese themselves to be determined by the political process."

By implication Rogers rejected the proposal of the Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, to withdraw two American divisions from Europe. He said the United States will seek early negotiations with the European allies for "mutual and balanced force reductions on both sides."

Then, with obvious reference to McGovern's plan, he told the platform drafters: "To avoid compromising our chances for success in such negotiations, we will resist premature pressures for withdrawal of American troops alone."

As leadoff witness for the administration at the four-day hearings of the 108-member GOP platform body, Rogers took pains to challenge the Democratic platform's charge that, whereas the President took office claiming to have a secret plan for peace in Vietnam, "Nixon's plan is still secret."

As Rogers entered the hearing room, a gaunt, ashen white figure clad in a shroud stood silently outside the door — one of the peace demonstrators who have undertaken to remind Republican convention delegates that the killing in Vietnam goes on.

Rogers assured the platform writers: "I believe — and I think most Americans believe — that our nation has the outstanding leader in the world in the cause of peace — the leader who gives the United States the best chance for a generation of peace."

Rogers appealed for broad support by Americans of Nixon's policy, but warned that the path toward peace "requires a readiness to maintain that strength without which no peace can be assured."

Support for a strong national defense plank was expected to develop as the hearings progressed.

In his opening greetings to the platform committee today, GOP national chairman Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas said that, despite McGovern's proposed cut of more than $30 billion in defense outlays, the Democratic platform proposals would increase federal outlays by more than $300 billion, or more than the entire current budget.

Kissinger Again in Secret Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger is conducting another secret Vietnam negotiating session in Paris today with North Vietnamese officials, the White House said.

The meeting, 16th in a series of secret sessions Kissinger has conducted with Communist negotiators, is the third secret session in the past six weeks.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler made the brief announcement, saying the President's assistant for national security affairs was meeting today with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and the chairman of the North Vietnamese delegation, Xuan Thuy.

Ziegler turned aside all questions on the renewed secret talks, saying, "That's all I have to tell you."

Among the questions he declined to answer was one based on a Time magazine report that recent Kissinger-North Vietnamese meetings have prompted U.S. officials to seek a means by which Hanoi could be assured of the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

LBJ, Not Nixon, Missed Boat on Peace, Rogers Says

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that if the United States ignored a North Vietnamese peace signal four years ago "it was President Johnson who missed the boat, not President Nixon."

As Democratic vice-presidential nominee Sargent Shriver opened a continent-spanning campaign trip still insisting that Nixon lost "a very golden opportunity" for peace, Nixon's secretary of state talked with reporters in Miami Beach, Fla.

Rogers quoted W. Averell Harriman, chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks under Johnson as saying the signal came in October or perhaps early November of 1968. Shriver was then U.S. ambassador in Paris.

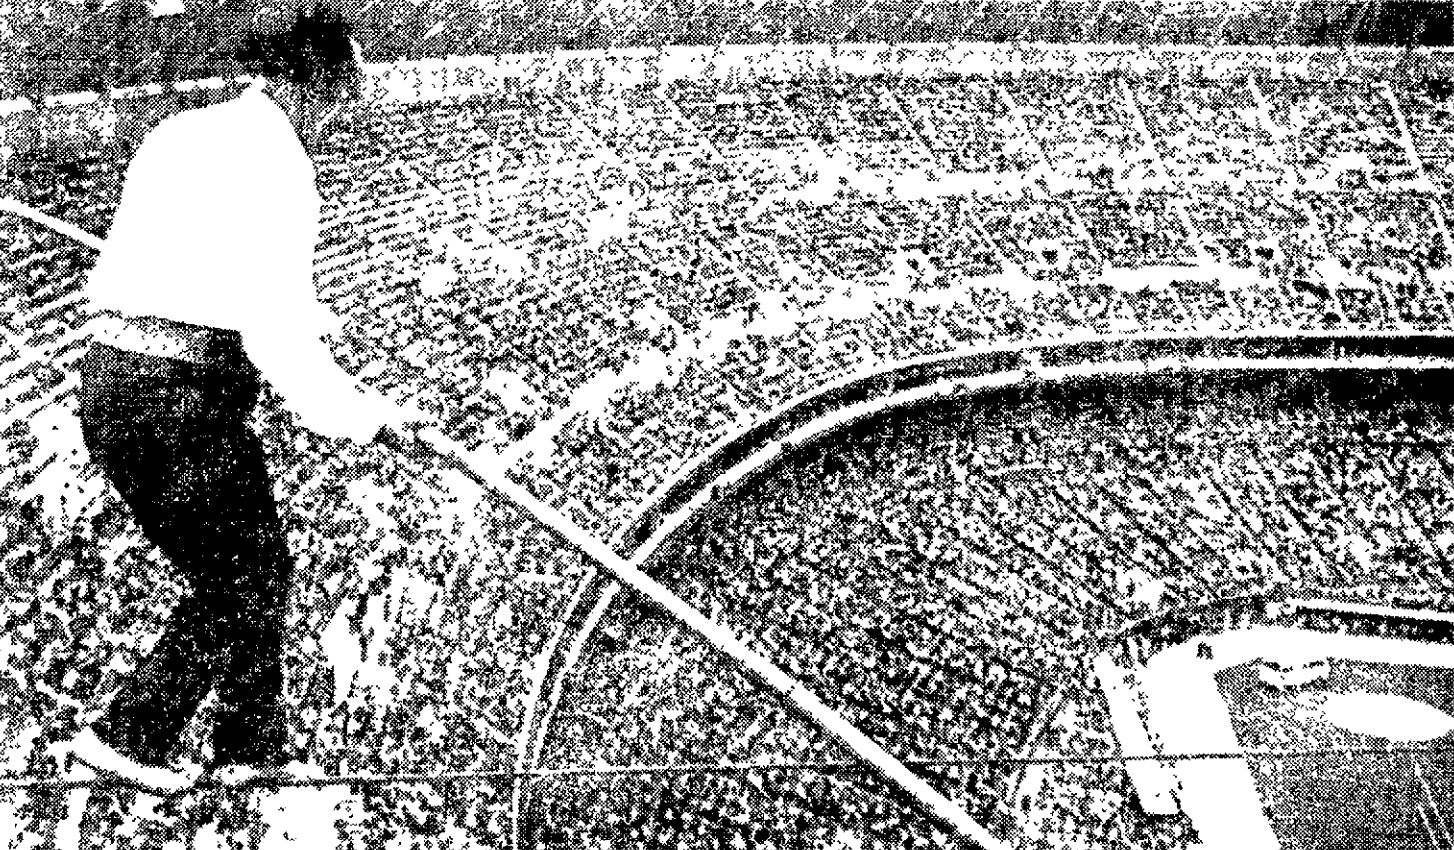

"That would mean the Democratic administration had three months to act on the supposed signal before President Nixon

took office," Rogers told reporters as he left a Republican

Divisions Manage to be Self-Supporting

China's Army Has Military - Political Role

EDITORS' NOTE — Wes Gallagher, president of The Associated Press, has been touring China after negotiations in which the AP and Hsinhua, the Chinese news agency, reached an agreement for an exchange of news and photographs.

By WES GALLAGHER
PEKING (AP) — China's army has been placed firmly into the power structure of the government in a position unique in the world today.

A visit to the headquarters of the 196th Division demonstrates this dual civilian-military role. Its members sit in the revolutionary committees from the top of government to the commune and district level as part of a governing triumvirate of army, administrators and rank and file.

The 196th engages in farming, manufacturing, helping nearby farmers with the harvest and helping govern by having representatives on nearby committees which rule communes, districts and counties.

The People's Liberation Army also is probably much larger than some of the Western estimates of 2.9 million. The Chinese say Soviet Russia has massed a million soldiers on China's northern border, and it is unlikely that China has fewer men facing them. But in addition, in every city, village and rural area, you see army members in uniform or sometimes in peasant clothes helping with the harvest. Figures, of course, are not available.

Farming Country

The 196th Division is deep in farming country. Its barracks are surrounded by crops which belong to the division. Like every unit in the country, the division strives to be self-sufficient. The 196th, already self-sufficient in meat and vegetables, is striving in other areas. A small factory produces medicine for the division's own use and that of nearby areas. Wives of soldiers and a few men run the factory.

The Chinese army is all volunteer and officials say they have far more than enough to choose from — a military career is a coveted one.

The army's role in civilian government was defined by Mao Tse-tung in his famous "May 7" directive when student excesses during the Cultural Revolution seemed to be getting out of hand.

This directive governs all actions in China. It set up the

May 7th camps for re-education of dissidents and officials but its definition of the role of the army is likely to have far more impact into the future.

Great School

The directive started off: "The People's Liberation Army should be a great school. In this school, our army should study politics and military affairs, raise its education level, and also engage in agriculture and side occupations and run small or medium-size factories to make products for its own needs or for exchange with the state for equal values. ## Marijuana Farm Raided in Capital

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Madison police raided a city apartment Sunday and arrested two people in connection with a sophisticated indoor garden.

Police said they found two rooms filled with six-foot, potted marijuana plants. The rooms were outfitted with fluorescent lights, a ventilation system, thermometers, irrigation equipment and electric timers, police reported.

One officer described the operation as "the best marijuana garden" he ever encountered.

Charged with possession of dangerous drugs as suppliers were David Iaquinta, 22, and Mary C. Grosspietsch, 23.

Reforms in State Probate Laws Get Push by Petitioners

Monday, August 14, 1972 The Post-Crescent A 3

REFORMS IN STATE 2-36-3
By PETER B. SEYMOUR
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Thousands of petitions are being circulated by probate reform advocates in a new campaign to dislodge the Wisconsin legal profession's control over estate inheritance.

"We're going to the legislature, determined to win this time," Walter G. E. Heiden said. "Every time they try to throw an amendment into this thing, we have friends in the Assembly who are going to let us and the press know immediately."

Heiden, a Waukesha industrial engineer, is chairman of Wisconsin Citizens for Legal Reform, a newly organized group of citizens whose motto is: "Estate should be left to loved ones, not to attorneys."

His group, he said, is a reply to the frustration caused by years of legislative defeat or crippling modification of attempts to curtail the cost of putting an estate through probate.

Legislative Process
Rather than rely entirely on the legislative process, the Heiden group wants a showdown at the polls in 1973.

The legislature is being petitioned to set up an advisory referendum in which voters would be asked about eliminating a statutory requirement for having a lawyer handle a probate matter.

Voters also would be asked if heirs should be allowed to use a simple form to handle the matters, and whether the state should increase from $10,000 to $100,000 the minimum net estate which could be probated by summary assignment to a survivor.

The objective is to bypass the fees which lawyers are allowed to demand for handling an estate. The legal profession contends nonlawyers should not handle complicated tax and legal matters. Critics say lawyers simply want to safeguard a lucrative source of income.

Although inheritance taxes of ten figure in complaints against Wisconsin's existing probate statutes, Heiden said his organization is interested primarily in the cost of attorney fees.

"The major thing," he said,

"is removal of an unnecessary cost, and that is: the amount an attorney takes out of an estate."

His group, based in Waukesha, began circulating petitions in Milwaukee suburbs about eight weeks ago.

Heiden said 25,000 petitions are in circulation, 25,000 more have been printed, a branch chapter has been organized in Buffalo County in western Wisconsin, and a goal of 500,000 signatures has been chosen.

Wisconsin has a county-court system of disposing of the deceased's property, paying off taxes and debts and determining who gets the left-overs.

Law requires appointment of an executor, and employment of a lawyer. The State Bar of Wisconsin has set a minimum fee rate for the lawyer.

He can claim 5 per cent of the gross on a $10,000 estate, 3 1/2 per cent of the next $30,000, and 2 1/2 per cent on everything over that.

Attorney Required
The State Supreme Court ruled 7-0 in a crucial 1965 case that, if the executor is not an attorney, probate affairs "must be presented for him by an attorney."

The ruling stemmed from an Evansville business executive's futile protest against having to pay $4,800 in legal fees on his mother's estate. A lower court refused to accept his documents unless he hired a lawyer, and his appeal was challenged by the state bar and the American Bar Association.

Some reform has been adopted subsequently. Since May 13, a surviving spouse is assured a $50,000 exemption from the state inheritance tax. Formerly, the exemption was $5,000 for a widower and $15,000 for a widow.

Assets which are clearly valued, such as stocks and bonds, no longer have to be appraised under court auspices.

Fixed Percentage
But the law profession's statutory right to demand a role in probate, and claim a fixed percentage of an estate rather than having to charge clients an hourly fee for actual work done, remains basically unaltered.

In the latest contests over this provision, the Assembly defeated 67-31 a proposed short-term probate plan last year and the state bar's Board of Governors voted a month later to continue charging clients on a percentage scale.

David G. Berger, a Milwaukee assemblyman who has fought for probate revision, said reform to date has, for the most part, only "enabled the probate lawyer to have an easier task."

Reform Group
Paul E. Scula, chairman of the Assembly's Judiciary Committee, said he expects reformers will have better chances in the 1973 legislature of streamlining probate processes, "eliminating delays and tax consequences."

Scula said Heiden's organization is the only active reform group to have contacted him lately about the issue. The group's activity, however, is a measure of citizen interest, he said.

Heiden said he joined the reform movement a few years ago, simply as a concerned citizen annoyed by privilege.

He and his wife, he said, are impressed with the public response engendered by the creation of their petitioning organization.

A fellow petitioner, Heiden said, took a bundle of petitions and began a door-to-door solicitation of signatures.

"He is already asking for more petitions," Heiden said. The Heiden home in Waukesha has become the group's headquarters, having received petitions with 10,000 signatures in the initial seven weeks of the campaign and nearly 15,000 more in the eighth week alone.

Heiden said he has received a request for petitions from a Baraboo volunteer affiliated with a lobby group for elderly persons.

"This is snowballing," Heiden said, "and this time we are going to insist on being winners."

Optimists, Marine Band Go Together

BY GEORGE WYETH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

When the band comes to town, the Appleton Breakfast Optimists are not far behind. Every other year the breakfast club sponsors a visit by the Marine Corps band, which is not only a major fundraising project for the club, but judging from the interest it arouses, an important event to residents of the Fox Valley. According to Earl Holzer, president of the club, "People ask for tickets, before they're even printed."

Almost all of the Breakfast Club's funds for community service projects are raised from the band's visits. This money is eventually distributed in a wide range of activities, some of which are run by the club, while others are dependent upon contributions.

A new project the breakfast club is starting during this election year is the "RSVP" (standing for Register, Study, Vote, Participate) campaign, which aims at getting more voters out to the polls and making sure they are aware of the candidates and issues. Plans are not yet complete for RSVP, but possibilities include providing transportation to registration and polling places, conducting a newspaper campaign, and sponsoring appearances by candidates.

Officers of the Breakfast Optimists are Holzer, president; Robert C. Cahelle, vice-president; William E. Lueck, treasurer; and Donald Schubert, secretary.

Civilization Could Fall On a U.S. Breakfast

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: One of the surest signs a man is growing old is the development in him of new small habits of thrift—such as the saving of string, paper bags or even broken shoelaces, tossed into a drawer. Nature, the great conservator, has whispered in his ear that the time of life has come when he cannot afford to throw anything away but must cling desperately to everything he has.

A majority of the working population of America seems to get its gears going in the morning with a cup of hot coffee and a piece of pastry or a doughnut.

How can a civilization endure if most of its people start each day with such a dietary disaster? How can they stomach the rest of the day? Shades of our pioneer ancestors, who breakfasted on biscuits, butter, honey, eggs, bacon, ham or steak, whither are we tending?

But the good temper, digestion and endurance on the job of the average man would improve vastly if he did just one simple thing—replace the piece of pastry with a single hard-boiled egg. Try this for two weeks yourself and see if you don't feel better.

Healthy Mind
A healthy mind is one that doesn't clutter itself with small animosities or waste its energy on trifles. Resentment drains your energy, just as too many small leaks will in time empty a reservoir. If you let yourself be eroded by petty concerns, you will inevitably wind up petty-minded.

Now and then you hear a red-haired girl say, "I hate the color of my hair." Mark her down as a fibber. Every red-haired girl is glad and secretly proud that she is a redhead. She is inwardly vain about it, too, and is convinced that every blonde or brunette girl she meets envies her. They do, too.

The very poor and the very rich are alike in some ways. Utter poverty can make a man as selfish and egotistical and arrogant as wealth can make a man who feels it is a cushion against consequences. Both pauper and prince tend to have deplorable manners, the one because he is naughty, the other because he is haughty. Only members of the middle class consistently employ good manners—or hold each other in mutual respect.

Sitting on Jury
If I were sitting on a jury, I doubt that I would vote for any verdict that would cost more than a year in jail for any man who robbed a bank in order to pay his own doctor bill or to buy a set of false teeth for his dear old gray-haired mother. It is essential at almost any price to keep up a good family appearance in this world.

You can't listen very long at a cocktail party to two people talk about their trip to Paris without one exclaiming, "And remember, on a bad morning, how well the strawberries went with the champagne?" And the other always murmurs assent and nods misty-eyed, and then a hushed reverent pauses ensues as if everyone was in church. For crying out loud, doesn't anyone ever go to Paris, wake up with a hangover, and reach out shakily for a handful of leftover peanuts and a bottle of cola?

Another new Optimist project will be a scholarship for a student at Fox Valley Technical Institute.

- Aid for the Salvation Army's Christmas gift distribution.
- Youth Appreciation Week and the Youth of the Month Award.
- An annual Respect for Law campaign.
- The Sing Out Fox Cities group for high school age singers, which has grown to include 40 to 60 young people.
- Support and gifts for the Peeters Group Home and Rawhide Camp, and equipment for the Menominee Indian Children's Camp.

Calumet Discusses Plans for Hotline

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — A Hotline for Calumet County is being organized by a group of approximately 30 persons, according to John Salm, committee chairman for the county's Mental Health Association.

Hotline will be an independent, non-profit service staffed by volunteers and financed by fund-raising activities.

The primary purpose of the organization is to establish and operate a call-in telephone center to provide an informational and referral service to persons in the area in crises situations who want to remain anonymous.

Although the initial service may be abridged, the ultimate goal of the organization, says Salm, is to offer year-round, 24-hour a day service with qualified persons on the lines at all times. The Hotline number will be toll free.

Hotline is designed to provide a listening ear or referral service for persons with problems ranging from drugs or alcohol to draft counseling and unwanted pregnancy. Salm stressed that the service also will be used for minor problems.

Hotline also will act to stimulate public awareness through educational and informational programs such as public speakers and seminars. It also will try to provide any additional services that county residents feel would be beneficial to their community.

The Calumet center hopes to remove some of the crises responsibility from other county agencies.

Manawa Nursing Center Purchased

MANAWA — Dwain Hunter, 39, Weyauwega, recently purchased the Manawa Nursing Center from local stockholders. The 67-extended care facility is located on a seven acre site on the city's east side, bordering Fourth and Grove streets.

Hunter has been assistant administrator of the Riverview Nursing Center, Waupaca and is licensed by the state of Wisconsin as a nursing home administrator. His wife is a registered nurse and also holds the nursing home administrator's license.

Hunter stated that he plans no changes in personnel or operating policies. He also said the Center was recently inspected by the Department of Social Services, Madison for compliance with an application for Title 19 (Medicaid) certification. No deficiencies were noted and Hunter credited the staff for this.

At the present time the Center is filled, but Hunter stated

5 Burned in Boat Explosion On Winnebago

Blast Came Soon After Refueling at Oshkosh Marina

OSHKOSH — An explosion and fire aboard a motorboat caused burn injuries to three persons and destroyed the craft on Lake Winnebago near the Pioneer Inn about 3 p.m. Sunday.

Six persons were on the 24-foot inboard boat owned and operated by John F. Bergstrom, 1155 Lake St., Neenah. Also on board were Mrs. Diane Bergstrom, 25; John F. Hemes, 25, Nassau Street, Menasha; his wife Vickie, 24, and Hans and Heide Hemes, both 2 years old.

Mrs. Hemes was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, suffering from burns to both feet and lower legs. Mrs. Bergstrom was treated for burns to the left foot and lower leg and released from Theda Clark. They were transferred to Theda Clark from Mercy Medical Center in Oshkosh. Heide Hemes was treated at Mercy for burns to both feet and also was released.

The boat had just refueled at the Pioneer Marina and was about one-fourth mile offshore in the lake when it exploded.

The passengers were rescued from the water by boaters in the area.

Two companies of the Oshkosh Fire Department were sent to the scene but by the time they arrived, two men in another boat had extinguished most of the fire.

The boat drifted toward shore and was pulled from the water at Evaline Street, north of the Pioneer.

The cause of the explosion is being investigated. There were no other witnesses to the incident.

School Board To Take Bids At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The district board of education will accept bids and quotations for work at the Bear Creek Elementary School and for work on the roof of the senior high school here when it meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the board room of the Longfellow School.

Under personnel, the board will act on a contract for Nicholas Muenssens, a 1972 graduate of St. Norbert College, to teach high school instrumental music for approximately 80 days, and on a request from Therese Everson for release from her teaching contract for 1972-73 for junior high special education.

Robert Veleke, who had taught high school instrumental music here and who was called into military service, expects to be released from service this fall and will then return to his teaching position.

Miss Everson, who is a graduate of Northern Michigan University, was issued a contract this spring to teach the class previously taught by Mrs. Mary Thomas, who retired at the end of the 1971-72 school term.

14 Persons Die on Wisconsin Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three members of a Merrill family and two of their relatives were killed in a two-car automobile collision early Sunday as 14 persons died on Wisconsin roads and the annual state fatality toll zoomed to 668, compared with 639 at this time last year.

Walter Tesch Jr., 29, of Merrill; his wife, June, 29; their son, Daniel, 3; Mrs. Tesch's brother, Randall Schmidt, 13, of Merrill; and Tesch's brother, Ronald Tesch, 26, of Wausau, were killed as authorities said they returned home from a neighborhood baseball game in suburban Wausau.

Marathon County Coroner Marvin Nelles said all were occupants in the car Mrs. Tesch was driving west on State 29 in the town of Ringle, about nine miles east of Wausau. He said her car collided nearly head-on with an east-bound car driven by Thomas Chack, 18, of Eland. He was at a Wausau hospital.

Flipped Over
Three Milwaukee youngsters were killed in separate accidents Sunday. Julia Lopez, 9, day night, The victim was struck by a car on a street near her home, Clarence Drexler, 7, died in a two-car collision on State 83 about 2 1/2 miles north of Hartford in Washington County. And Gregory Kroll, 8, was fatally injured when struck by a car in a Milwaukee park.

A 14-year-old Zinda boy, Jon Smith, was also killed Sunday when the car he was in left a Walworth County road and flipped over.

Foggy conditions were blamed for two other weekend deaths. Donna McIvor, 45, of Kenosha lost her life Sunday when the car she was in crashed into an embankment in heavy fog at the intersection of State 174 and a county road in the Town of Pleasant Prairie. A three-car crash on fog-cloaked U.S. 51 south of Merrill early Saturday killed Geraldine Fleishman, 15, of Merrill, who was a passenger in one of the cars.

John Luedike, 28, of Plainfield died Saturday when his car left U.S. 51 in Portage County, struck a tree stump and rolled over.

Marion Schools Grew With Nell

BY LOIS BRANDENBURG
Post-Crescent Correspondent

MARION — Twenty-five years of continuous service by one man in Marion Joint School District No. 3 came to an end this month when Supt. Lloyd Nell officially turned over the reins of district administration to his successor, Jerry Quandt.

Nell announced his resignation earlier this year but stayed on the job through July. He has not announced any definite plans but says he will continue to work in some phase of education.

He came here in 1947 and was honored two years ago for having been an administrator in Wisconsin schools for 25 years. He is a member of the Quarter Century Club of Wisconsin School Administrators Association. Except for two years when he served as superintendent of the Neshkoro schools in Marquette County, he has been administrator here.

Lloyd Nell

Under Nell's direction, the school system has grown in total enrollment from about 340 to nearly 1,100 students and the faculty has grown from 20 teachers to more than 60. Two buses transported students at that time; now there are 16. There have been three complete turnovers of school board members since 1947.

Reorganization

Most of this growth has come through school district reorganization which has made it possible to offer many courses and services to both elementary and secondary pupils which were not possible before.

The Marion district was the first in Waupaca and Shawano counties to integrate. Since the start of the integration program in 1949 — which met with quite a bit of opposition in the rural areas — Marion maintained 12 elementary districts, operating schools in Leopold, Caroline, Pella, Big Falls, McKinley, Lake Michael, Pioneer, Smithville and Fairview. These eventually consolidated until, at present, the district maintains elementary schools in Big Falls, Caroline and Leopold.

Since the original integration there have been two additions to the school district: The northern area of Shawano County and the southern area of Waupaca County. The present district covers 140 square miles.

The integration of the joint school district was upheld in court in February, 1952. During the school year when the legality of the integration was being considered, Nell maintained two sets of accounting books in case

Fair-Goers Still Small in Number

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin State Fair officials had plenty of time to handle exposition visitors at the entry gates Sunday, but had more than they could handle during the afternoon at the first aid trailer.

Total attendance lagged far behind last year's three-day total of 310,022 with the 102,184 persons who came Sunday in 80-plus degree weather, compared with 111,602 on that day in 1971, bringing the cumulative figure to only 243,630.

Fair director Roy Ullius said heat exhaustion cases were being brought to the exposition's first aid trailer during the afternoon faster than nurses could keep track of them. None were reported to be serious, however, and Ullius said no one had been hospitalized.

The fair director said the spirit of those at the fair been great, despite the rain which fell opening day and the hot, muggy weather which then engulfed the fairgrounds.

"I just came from the Coliseum and the livestock barns and I never saw them so completely jammed with visitors," he said at one point Sunday. "This is clearly an indication that urban people desire to know what is going on in the farm communities throughout the state."

More than 7,000 persons jammed the Coliseum to watch the draft horse show as Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Haxom of Waverly, Iowa, were judged to have the best Percheron team.

Other winners were Jacob Ruby of Brookfield with his Belgian team; James Groves of Pecatonica, Ill., Clydesdale team; Herbert Schneekloth, unicorn; and Elroy Brass of Elkhart Lake, men's single cart.

Boy Pleads Guilty In Bicycle Thefts

A 14-year-old boy who police characterized as one of the principals in a major bicycle theft ring, Friday afternoon was placed in the custody of the State Department of Health and Social Services and ordered sent to the Lincoln School for Boys.

The Appleton youth earlier pleaded guilty to seven counts of bicycle theft, four counts of receiving and concealing stolen bikes, one count of marijuana possession and two charges of theft.

"You didn't leave the court any choice," Outagamie County Judge R. Thomas Cane commented in passing the sentence.

Cane noted that the boy had been in Juvenile Court a year ago for charges that included bicycle thefts. At that time, he was placed on supervision to the county Department of Social Services.

The state will have custody of the boy until he is 18. Cane told the youth he could expect to be at Lincoln at least eight months, but that the length of the stay would depend on his behavior.

Cane also ordered the boy to make $559 restitution for stolen and damaged bicycles.

The charges, brought by Appleton police, date from a year ago through last month.

The boy and other youths stole primarily expensive, multiple speed bikes, police said. They then altered the bikes and sold them. Police said they recovered a large number of stolen bicycles and bicycle parts from the boy's home.

On June 12, the boy entered the Appleton Bicycle Shop, 121 S. State St., and rode away on a 10 speed, $196 bike that was on display near the front of the shop. Police recovered the bike at the boy's home the next day.

The youth also admitted his part in the theft of a $130 amplifier from the First United Methodist Church and the theft of 15 padlocks from Roosevelt Junior High School.

The boy's attorney asked the court to place the youth in the custody of his father, who lives in Minnesota, rather than send him to Lincoln.

School Boards Accused of Stalling Teacher Contracts

RIPON — "Apparent widespread efforts by school boards to block agreements on teacher contracts for the coming school year could delay the opening of many Wisconsin schools this fall," the incoming president of the Wisconsin Education Association said here Saturday.

Fran Fruzen, Beloit, speaking to a group of local WEA leaders on the Ripon College campus, said, "Many school boards across the state could be in violation of state statutes which demand they bargain in good faith in attempting to reach settlements on teaching contracts."

With only two weeks left before school opens, he noted, 185 Wisconsin school districts have not yet reported teacher contract settlements for the 1972-73 school year.

Fruzen told the gathering, "The seriousness of the crisis is being escalated by the regressive positions and delaying tactics school boards have decided to following spite of strengthened bargaining provisions enacted in the last session of the Wisconsin legislature."

"The nature of the unresolved issues and the repeated denials of school boards to engage willingly in serious talks clearly indicates a concerted attempt to undermine the negotiations process established under Wisconsin law."

"At the same time," he argued, "the boards have refused to accept the impasse-resolving techniques of mediation and factfinding in attempting to reach a fair settlement."

Fruzen said the inability of the state to provide speedy enforcement of the intent of the present bargaining law was leading to "a sense of futility among teachers throughout the state."

"The continued adamant position of the boards makes the prospects of an early peaceful settlement in a large number of school districts improbable and teachers are being forced to consider more drastic measures," Fruzen said.

Ex-Alderman Dies; Services In Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Funeral services for Clarence W. Smith, 60, 254 Bennett St., a former alderman who died Saturday night, will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Rose Catholic Church.

Smith was pronounced dead on arrival at about 11 p.m. at Clintonville Community Hospital where he had been taken by the rescue squad after suffering a heart attack.

He was born in Mattoon and moved here as a youngster. Smith had served 16 years as an alderman from the 3rd Ward. He was defeated for reelection in April, 1971.

He was employed as a stock expeditor at the FWD Corp. here and was a past president of the local AFL-CIO.

Survivors include the widow, five sons, two sisters and four grandchildren.

Visitation will be from 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Heuer, Sievers and Stensrud Funeral Home. Burial will be in the St. Rose parish cemetery.

New Roof Bids Sought by Legion At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Tillson-Schrehle-Klitz American Legion Post will advertise for bids for a new roof on the Veterans Memorial Building.

Action followed a discussion on the need for a new roof at a meeting last week.

Reports were given on the recent 1972 department convention at Green Bay, attended by several members of the local post.

An invitation was read for the Legion members to march in Bowler's homecoming parade.

It was noted the Legion golf tournament will be Sept. 9 at Marshfield.

In the Spring, a new parsonage will stand on the spot where a shovelful of dirt was tossed Sunday by the officials of Zion United Church of Christ, Dale. The Rev. Paul Scheele, left, and Gilbert Kaufman, president of the congregation, break ground for the three-bedroom structure. The parsonage will be adjacent to the church and will replace the present rectory, which was constructed in 1893. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Female GOP Opponent May Give Risser Run for Money

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Democrats running for the state Senate will campaign with special ardor during the new campaign season, having heard so often that their party has not controlled the upper house of the legislature during their memory—or the memory of most of their parents.

But one of them will have more incentive to exert himself than ever before in his life. Sen. Fred Risser of Madison, indeed, will have two pressing reasons to hope for election day, that result, he may attain the fond hope of a vital change in title, from minority floorleader of the house to majority leader.

There is another and more crucial motivation for him. He confronts what probably will be the most difficult test in his 15-year career, according to early calculations.

His challenger is Mrs. Betty Smith, wife of a respected, Madison lawyer and long-time Republican activist and a leader in her own right. A long-time Republican worker and a founder of the state Women's Political Caucus, she can attract votes in the usually liberal Madison campus community and elsewhere that would go to Risser as a Democrat in a "normal situation," in an early assessment.

The idea of discrimination in Washington in the doling out of federal dollars has been heard often, but studies by non-political sources have concluded that there is little that can be done about it, given the state's comparative economic status, its enterprise in supporting its own services, state and local, and other factors.

The usual response to complaints about federal financial discrimination against Wisconsin is to propose a state-operated Washington office to "lobby" the bureaucratic establishment and the Congress. But several governors who considered it rejected it as impracticable and wasteful.

There is now talk that Gov. Patrick J. Lucey is intrigued with the idea of such an office, and in fact recently dispatched an agent to invite Mary Lou Burg, the Democratic national committeewoman for the state, to establish and run it. But Miss Burg declined. She is committed to remain on the staff of the Democratic national committee, she has informed the governor.

Note: Some governors maintain such offices as a part of their personal political apparatus. If Lucey proceeds with his idea, given his recent revelation of national political aspirations, there will be those who will inevitably conclude that he is as interested in Washington press exposure as in federal aid dollars.

Progress Report: After it was related here recently that the University of Wisconsin ordered 100 special auto registration plates for use of its ranking officers and regents, officials of the state Department of Transportation hurriedly ordered the production of up to 900 more of them for distribution to any UW staffers willing to pay the extra $3 for the plates with special symbols.

The new Wisconsin plates have a red-on-white color combination (the school's colors) but the special plates for the university also carry low numerals with the "UW" prefix.

Notwithstanding, they are not best sellers in spite of vigorous promotion by the university administration. At last count, only 102 of them had been sold beyond the initial request of President John Weaver for 100

Mark Barbash, one of the best known and most effective of the leaders of the Young Democratic organization of the state and one of Lucey's McGovern for President workers in the executive office during recent months, has left for new employment.

He has joined the Washington office staff of Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, who is usually described as the best friend in the senate of the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Complaints about the distribution of party funds to legislative candidates of the two Wisconsin political parties have been heard in every election campaign since substantial state party headquarters efforts in legislative elections began.

The party bursars typically are required to ration the money available and do not always do so equally. Their pragmatic requirements tend to emphasize the districts in which their nominees have a reasonable chance to win on the basis of electoral performance in the past, which often means that the predictable victor and the aspirant in a district where the record shows his chances are doubtful do not get fair treatment.

In Republican politics currently, some grumbling is already audible about the prospective distribution of available legislative campaign funds. Minority Leader John Shabaz of Waukesha County is the adviser upon extra runs.

Other items included on the agenda will be discussion on the proper manner in which to contact local gasoline suppliers, about requesting more uniform pricing of gasoline and action on bids for milk, and fuel.

Board members will tour the facilities to view the summer custodial work.

Luther Leaguers Schedule Retreat

CLINTONVILLE — The Appleton Conference Luther League will have a retreat at the Long Lake Bible Camp, route 2, Clintonville, on the evening of Sept. 22 and the morning of Sept. 23.

The retreat will begin with a supper-group leaders' meeting with the Rev. Charles Schmitz at the Christus Parish Hall. Registration also will take place at Christus from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Then the Leaguers will attend the Clintonville Trucker-Marquette Mariners football game in Clintonville. Following the game, they will go to the Bible Camp where they will begin their special program.

The featured speaker for the retreat is Rev. Schmitz, of the Evangelism Department of The American Lutheran Church.

There also will be recreational opportunities, private meditation and a business meeting. The retreat will conclude with the Saturday noon meal.

The cost for registration is $6 which includes all meals and snacks at the Bible Camp, as well as the ticket for the football game.

Part of the registration for the Christus Luther League members will be paid by the local league, and those who want to attend the retreat are asked to contact the church office or Brenda Keller.

the ranking position in the rural government lobby. But there have been indications that association Vice President Ed K. Krueger of rural Shawano may be interested also.

President of the organization is Kenneth Schricker of Spooner, one of the more effective state Assembly representatives who has been elected from upper Wisconsin lately.

Officials have not yet mentioned it, but the University of Wisconsin Regents soon will select a "search and screen" committee in anticipation of the retirement next year of the second ranking state university head in the state.

Joseph Martin Klotz of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee is the dean of the university chancellors and will step down next June when he reaches the mandatory retirement age for administrators.

The selection process may very well involve a struggle, not only because of the importance of the institution in the Wisconsin metropolis but because of its declared urban affairs mission in the urban southeastern part of the state. Inevitably, there will be partisan repercussions among Republicans and Democrats, as attentive university affairs watchers see it.

The lines to be drawn will not be automatically partisan, but will involve in part party power and partisan issues. Lucey will have a natural concern about the choice for command of the second most important university in the government he heads, remembering that a Republican board hired UW System President John C. Weaver soon before his election.

Natural choices for the committee that will direct the recruiting and screening will be the two regent activists from Milwaukee, Republican John Pelisek and Democrat Bertram McNamara, the former a board member who was involved in the last major selection, the latter an appointee of the Democratic governor who has strong feelings about the development of the Milwaukee campus and labor's voice and role there. McNamara, the former a board organization officer.

Harvest Season for Government Booklets

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Federal agencies and departments have been setting some sort of record in recent months for showing interest in consumer problems. In place of the usual midsummer doldrums has been an unusual flurry of press releases, speeches and pronouncements expressing official concerns.

The general impression is one of an administration deeply committed to improving every facet of personal life. At the same time, the administration is being criticized by some consumer advocates for allegedly undermining important legislation in Congress.

Whatever the actual role of the administration is on any issue, there is something for almost everyone in the latest crop of government publications, including an index to others you might have missed.

Standards for Meat and Poultry Products. This is a four-page folder published by the Department of Agriculture listing percentages of meat required in standard food products. It is available free from Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C., 20407.

Brand Names Identical to Products Purchased and Tested for Use by the Federal Government. This is the second edition of a list of some 400 consumer products purchased by the General Services Administration. The list does not constitute an endorsement of any product, nor does the list include all competing brands in any product category. The list may be of more value to businessmen than consumers. It is available for 25 cents from Consumer Product Information.

Importing a Foreign Car. This is an eight-page pocket-size pamphlet describing problems of shipping duties, licensing and clearance procedures involved in importing a foreign motor vehicle. Foreign cars must comply with all vehicle and emission standards. The publication costs 10 cents and can be obtained from the same source previously mentioned.

Cleaners Closes At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Mrs. Robert Egan has announced that Clintonville Cleaners, which was established in 1930 by the late Oscar Colden, will close Tuesday.

Colden established the firm at its present location at 11 E. 11th St. and operated it until his retirement in 1944, when he moved to Waupaca where Mrs. Colden still lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Egan took over the business March 18, 1944. Egan died Jan. 19 of this year and Mrs. Egan has kept the business in operation until the present time.

Senior Citizens Plan Picnic at Black Creek

BLACK CREEK — The Black Creek Senior Citizens will have their picnic at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Black Creek Village Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ort are chairman with Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Stingle co-chairmen. Assisting are Raymond Ellenbecker, Mrs. Edward Genske, Mrs. Gertrude Peterson and Mrs. Esther Goerl.

trations outlining the problems faced by more than 20 million Americans. It is must reading for anyone who suffers from some hearing loss and is considering purchasing a hearing aid. For such people, the booklet is well worth the 60 cents it costs from the same source mentioned for the previous booklets.

(Almost) Everything You Ever Wanted to Know About Boating... But Were Ashamed to Ask. Despite the cuteness of the title and similar contrived cleverness in the text, this publication is of value to small boat owners who want to know about the latest safety regulations, which have been coming out almost daily. It is free from Consumer Product Information.

Official Recreational Boating Guide. This is a more soberly worded discussion about federal safety regulations, giving details on required and optional equipment and aids to navigation. It costs 60 cents from the same source.

Ladders. This is a slick 20-page booklet giving many people more than they might want to know about ladders. It is the fifth of a series of booklets. Previous ones were entitled Automobile Batteries (40 cents), Fire Extinguishers (40 cents), Vacuum Cleaners (40 cents) and Paint and Painting (60 cents). Ladders costs 45 cents from the same source.

Index to consumer-oriented publications. This is a list of about 200 publications of practical use in buying and caring for consumer products. It is available without charge from Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C., 20407.

The cost for fare and ball game ticket is $6 per person. This is open to all men, women and children. If interested, you are asked to call the Christus Lutheran Church office.

Employees Decline Representation At Pine Manor

CLINTONVILLE — A second election was held Friday by the National Labor Relations Board for employees at the Pine Manor Nursing Home, Inc., route 3, Clintonville.

Two previous elections had been contested by the Hospital and Service Employees' Local 150, which received 10 votes in Friday's election.

The United Nursing Home and Hospital Employees' Local 222 didn't receive any votes and 42 employees voted not to be represented by either local.

Sixty-two employees were eligible to vote with 52 voting and 10 choosing not to vote.

Neenah Family Plans Carnival for Charity

A backyard carnival for muscular dystrophy will be conducted beginning at 1 p.m. Thursday at the home of Nancy Jansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Jansen, 1059 Sterling St., Neenah.

Various outdoor games for youngsters are planned to help raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

Last year 28,143 carnivals were conducted throughout the country, raising approximately $755,660.

Christus Brotherhood Plans Milwaukee Trip

CLINTONVILLE — If enough interest is shown, the Christus Brotherhood will schedule a bus trip to the Milwaukee Brewers-Chicago White Sox baseball game and a tour of the Milwaukee Zoo on Aug. 27.

The cost for fare and ball game ticket is $6 per person. This is open to all men, women and children. If interested, you are asked to call the Christus Lutheran Church office.

Calumet Will Hear Petitions On Zoning

SHERWOOD — A public hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Calumet County Courthouse by the county zoning board of adjustments to consider a petition of First Central Mortgage, Inc., for the construction of a machine shed in the Town of Harrison.

The petitioner is requesting a variance to highway setback requirements of 65 feet from town road centerline to 40 feet from the centerline.

At the same time, the board also will consider a petition of Alex Thiel, route 2, Hilbert, for a variance to side yard setback requirement in the Shoreland jurisdictional area in the Town of Stockbridge from 10 foot requirement to 7.3 feet. He plans to build an addition onto his garage in the town.

Persons interested in the matters are advised to appear and speak at the hearing.

Local Residents Attend Annual Suzuki Institute

STEVENS POINT — Eight Appleton residents were among the many from throughout the state to attend the second annual American Suzuki Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

Taking part in the session on music in general and the violin in particular, were Judith Kurka, Judy McDowell, music students; Lucile Orbison, and Gary and Sheryl Putman, string instructors, and David and Eric Veum and Ray Ostwald, music pupils.

The Suzuki method is based on the belief that any child can learn how to play an instrument given the proper instructor, good environmental conditions and parental help. It stresses repetition and memorization.

MD Carnival Collects $65

CLINTONVILLE — Proceeds for the Muscular Dystrophy fund from the neighborhood carnival netted about $65.

The activities, at the home of Dr. Charles Laux, 19th Street, included several games of skill, a "freak" show, rides on a merry-go-round and pony, an auction and refreshments.

Greenville Church Unit Schedules Corn Roast

GREENVILLE — The Adult Fellowship of the United Methodist Church, Greenville and Center, will have their annual corn roast Wednesday. Serving starts at 5:30 p.m. with brats, ice cream and pie.

The event will be held at the Faith Community Church, Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nelson are in charge of food with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Diestler.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Drescher are in charge of publicity with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hameister and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Uhlenbruch. Mr. and Mrs. Keith will set up the tables etc.

Walk Through Fox Cities Nets $2,500

Too Many Helpers Blamed for Drop From Last Year

Nearly $2,500 was collected in the second annual walk for Development through the Fox Cities last May 27, Mary Hertel, a local walk coordinator, said today.

Between 250 and 300 young people followed a 25-m.e. route through the Fox Cities to raise money for selected projects and to create an awareness of the problems facing developing nations in the world.

Last year, 600 persons collected $10,000 walking over the same route.

Miss Hertel attributed the smaller showing in numbers and funds this year to a lack of coordination. Too many persons were working on too many aspects of the march, she said. The number of sponsors was down from last year also.

Five Projects

The $2,500 will be divided among two foreign and three domestic projects and educational aims of the international Young World Development, the youth branch of the Freedom from Hunger Foundation.

Forty-two and one-half percent of the funds will be divided between a black liberation movement in Mozambique, a province of Portugal on the southeastern coast of Africa, and a hospital and refugee center in Quang Nai province of South Vietnam.

Another 42½ per cent of the money raised during the walk will go to La Raza, for support of the Mexican-American group's newspaper; Casa Clare, for remodeling expenses at Appleton's sole halfway house for women; and Friends, to defray operating expenses of the city's 24-hour emergency telephone service.

The remaining 15 per cent of the funds will go to the Freedom from Hunger Foundation for the printing of pamphlets, books and other materials and to perform research on foreign and domestic projects.

Miss Hertel said the Appleton branch of YWD would be severing its ties with the international organization, based in Washington, D.C., in order to have more money to donate directly to specific projects.

'Pocket Veto' Needs Settling

Senator Edward Kennedy has filed suit in a United States District Court against the head of the General Services Administration and the chief of records for the White House. His charge is that they did not carry out legislation passed by Congress but not signed by the President. And here the rather clumsy matter of intent of the Constitution comes into the issue.

The particular legislation provided federal financial assistance for the education of general practitioners. But aside from the merits of the bill, the controversy between Congress and the President about the validity of the "pocket veto" has existed for a long time.

The Constitution states that if a bill not signed by the President is repassed by a two-thirds vote of Congress it becomes law. Also "if any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law."

In the case of the Kennedy bill, the ten days ended during a 4-day Congressional holiday at Christmas time. Senator Kennedy asserts that the adjournment means that of the session and not a brief holiday.

Actually the Constitutional provision for the presidential veto power was argued a long time. While President Washington did use it, neither President Adams nor President Jefferson did. President Jackson was the first to employ the veto to express his point of view about a legislative policy rather than whether or not he thought legislation constitutional.

But the pocket veto issue really has not been completely determined. The wording of the Constitution makes it sound as if the Congress would have to deliberately adjourn to prevent an unsigned bill coming back to it in case Congress might not have the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto. Decisions in Congress on controversial measures would have to be — and have been — determined carefully so that the 10-day period after a President gets a bill would not end during a recess. Presumably this was not the intent of the writers of the Constitution but rather that a controversial bill should not become law unless there was a strong possibility that two-thirds of Congress would approve. It was an effort to strengthen the checks and balances and the will of a strong majority rather than to provide an out for a President opposed to a congressional policy.

Anyway, it's time the matter was settled.

Eagleton Stands Up Under Pressure

The dust of the Democratic Party's vice presidential nomination has settled, leaving an undesired coat of dirt on the image psychiatric treatment.

When Sen. Thomas Eagleton, the party's original nominee for the vice presidency, revealed his history of treatment for mental disorder, the nationwide uproar that followed ultimately forced presidential nominee George McGovern to ask Eagleton to remove himself from the ticket.

Public reaction of such magnitude is almost certain to leave a lasting impression on those who are in need of psychiatric care and who would benefit from it. The deeply depressed person, the psychotic, the person who is unable to adjust in some way to his environment, the person who needs guidance in coming to grips with himself most certainly will pause before seeking the counsel that will benefit him in the fear that this newly surfaced stigma will attach itself to him.

Seeking psychiatric care is nothing to be ashamed of; any problem untreated festers and grows, it does not go away. The concept of hiding away one's illness, of chaining the mentally ill to a dungeon wall and forgetting them is one that should have died with the Dark Ages. Much recent progress in the public attitude toward psychiatry stands in jeopardy.

Sen. Eagleton is perhaps the best advertisement there is for the soundness of psychiatric treatment. Having received the care he needed, he went on to serve with distinction in several state offices in Missouri and in the United States Senate, and he had the strength to stand up without crumbling under the recent unfortunate uproar and intense pressure on him to withdraw from the campaign. When the time came for him to pull out, he did it with grace, still standing squarely on his own two feet.

Funds for Vietnam Will Continue

Both houses of Congress have now rejected moves to cut off funds for the war in Vietnam after a specified date. The vote in the House to cut the antiwar amendment from a military aid bill was fairly decisive, 228 to 178. It was more decisive than in the Senate which actually adopted an end the war amendment to the aid bill, but then turned around and killed the bill itself.

All of this maneuvering leaves the matter of military aid up in the air, however. The House passed the bill after eliminating the amendment. It provides $1 billion for South Vietnam and other nations fighting in Indochina.

But the whole matter will have to be revived in the Senate where its fate is doubtful.

We sometimes are almost afraid to contemplate what might happen in Vietnam if Congress should eventually adopt a fund cut-off. Or if Senator George McGovern were elected and carried out his pledges to have all American troops out of Southeast Asia within 90 days.

It is entirely conceivable that the North Vietnamese army might completely overrun South Vietnam if we withdrew all our aid. A massive bloodbath could well ensue. And suppose that in addition Hanoi refused to free American prisoners of war. We must remember that many French prisoners never were freed after the hostilities between France and Vietnam.

The Post-Crescent has been editorializing for years that we must end our involvement in Vietnam. But it must be ended logically and carefully and we must at the least give South Vietnam a decent chance to survive as an independent nation.

It is a good thing that calm heads prevailed in the House in rejecting the end the war provision.

Elm Trees Can be Saved

Injecting elm trees with a fungus killing compound is proving successful in a majority of cases in fighting Dutch Elm disease. The injections of benlate, known commercially as Benlate, are giving municipalities and home owners a new tool in their efforts to save our beautiful elms.

The injections are a supplement rather than a substitute for other procedures in fighting the disease. Trimming dead wood out of elms and taking down dead trees still is important.

The cost of the injection treatment is somewhat high, but when it is compared with the cost of taking down a large dead elm it is far from prohibitive. And one advantage is that the injection can be delayed until there is evidence that a tree is infected. Treatment is recommended when about five per cent of the elm's foliage shows signs of the disease.

Municipalities could also reduce the cost by instituting a well-organized program. Cities such as Appleton should seriously consider adding Benlate injections to its over-all program for saving the city's elms.

Looking Backward

Water Works True Economy

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 24, 1972.

The Daily doesn't approve of the establishment of Water Works "for a year or two yet." It speaks of them as "a luxury."

Now, the fact is, water has been an expensive luxury for a year or two past, and must continue to be such until Water Works are established.

Isn't it true economy for the city to contract for and own a system of Water Works, issuing long time bonds in payment for them, and establish a water rate to meet the interest and provide a sinking fund? And is there any likelihood they will cost less in a year or two hence than right now, or that we can better afford the "luxury" than than now?

The city press should discuss this matter frankly and openly. It stands in the way of no other enterprise whatever.

A Word Edgewise

McGovern, Successful in State Campaigns, Failure in Big Time

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

Until the recent crisis over the vice presidential nomination, Senator George McGovern was operating with great efficiency in a micro-political universe. He won the nomination with a masterful game-plan which involved gaining majorities among the small minority of the Democratic electorate that participated. He picked his key primaries carefully, won them (if one includes his media victory over Sen. Ed Muskie in New Hampshire), and was virtually invisible in the states he lost, thus giving the impression that he was not really a contestant. Speaking as a clinician, I would argue that his performance was spectacular.

A New Universe
Suddenly, however, in Miami Beach McGovern found himself thrust out into a new universe, one of macro-politics. Instead of forming caucuses in Iowa or packing conventions in various other states — a matter of rallying the faithful militants against the apathetic status quo — the McGovern apparatus found itself confronted with the immense task of mobilizing the Democratic electorate as a whole. As suggested here before, the tactics used at one level so successfully can, when applied nationally, be disastrous. You cannot spend a year or more excommunicating the wicked old politicians and then shift gears and hold a love-feast. A politician hates to be defeated, though he can live with it. However, he will not tolerate being demeaned, being excluded from the human race.

McGovern's first test in macro-politics was the selection of a vice presidential nominee. He failed it miserably. First of all, certain members of his staff should have been off in a corner for three months before Miami Beach going over the lists. When they got a short list, each individual on it should have been put through a full field investigation. Above all, McGovern should not have been put in the position where his first four choices semi-publicly turned him down. And the fact that McGovern was not aware of Senator Eagleton's medical record was simply unforgivable.

The McGovern staff is now busy blaming the system. There just isn't enough time, they argue, to screen vice presidential candidates properly. This is nonsense: they just didn't use their time properly. Their failure lay not in their stars but in themselves. More broadly this kind of staff work is a bad omen for the future. There is no better way of judging the competence of a politician than by the quality of his staff.

What He Should Have Done
McGovern's second macro-political blunder was the way he handled the Eagleton crisis. He should have vanished from circulation until he had reached a firm decision. Instead, out of Custer, S.D. (an ominous byline if ever there was one) came the immediate announcement that he was backing Eagleton "100 per cent." In the next three days Eagleton's stock plunged faster than anything in the history of the Dow-Jones. Then came the summit and Eagleton's obviously reluctant departure. So it was back to Square One with a new set of refusals until finally, it appears, they cut the deck and Sarge Shriver came up with the ace.

Again, there is more to this bumbling than initially meets the eye. Character is fate, the Greeks asserted, and McGovern's actions provide a disconcerting insight into his character. To be specific, if you were the Chancellor of West Germany, the Prime Minister of Israel, or, for that matter, a leader of the American civil rights movement, how secure would you feel with the "1,000 per cent" backing of President George McGovern? It is a question worth pondering.

(King Features Syndicate)

Potomac Fever—

McGovern was so determined to have a Kennedy on the ticket, he didn't care if he had to get one by marriage.

A lot of people guessed McGovern would wind up with Shriver — Shriver's always been available for anything.

No doubt Shriver's first duty will be to get Meany to join the Democratic Peace Corps.

The treacherous Lin Piao has been declared officially dead by Mao — seems Chairman Mao is better at assassinating characters than judging them.

The Republican convention will no doubt go smoothly, although there is some discussion as to where the Peking delegates should be seated.

McGovern withdrew his running-mate, his income maintenance plan, and his tax reform proposals. If elected, he'll have nothing left to withdraw but the war prisoners.

Remember when they used to say of McGovern, "Nice guys finish last?" Eagleton changed it to "Nice guys finish fast."

Wisconsin Report

Democratic State Senate Would be Unusual Situation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — As the Democratic campaign managers plan their election drive for the fall, they pointedly emphasize the enormous importance of winning control of the state senate by picking up four seats there.

Wyngaard

"Four is the magic number" has become virtually a campaign theme. If it is assumed that the party retains the vigor of organization and backing it had in the general elections of 1970, a senate majority may be attainable. That would infinitely relieve the Lucey administration which is quite aware that its second biennium record will determine the fate of the governor in the elections of 1974.

If the senate has a Democratic majority in the 1973 session, it may be assumed that the Democrats will retain a working majority of the assembly too.

It Would Be Unique
But there appears to be little awareness — or perhaps there is a conscious attempt to play down the reality — that a Democratic state senate would be a development of unique historic importance.

It has never happened before, in the memory of any politician now on the Wisconsin stage.

Indeed, the only comparable strength in this century of the senate's Democratic caucus was achieved nearly four decades ago, when 14 men were that party label in the legislature's upper house in 1935. That fact may surprise some of the contemporary enthusiasts for the Democratic cause.

The illusion prevails among some of the younger adherents that their party was master of the legislature in those days. It was not. It had the largest single senate bloc with 14 members. But there were three parties then, as the result of the schism in the Republican apparatus which finally led to the short-lived third party of Philip LaFollette. The Progressive party had 11 senators and the Stalwart Republicans, as they called themselves, had 8 in 1935.

Obviously Democrats then were liberals of the approximate philosophical orientation of the LaFollette Progressives. There had been a hope for some collaboration, but it was not attained. The LaFollettes, indeed, regarded themselves as the inventors of the ideas of the New Deal and Franklin Roosevelt whose sweep three years earlier had put some muscle into the purely nominal Wisconsin Democratic party of the time.

To Right of LaFollette
But old-line Democrats distrusted La Follette. Most of them were actually a considerable distance to the right of him ideologically. Distrust had been deepened by Roosevelt's clear preference for the Progressives as his allies here.

This reporter listened to FDR in Green Bay during the 1934 congressional campaign warmly endorsing Sen. Robert M. LaFollette for re-election and ignoring with chilly deliberation the Democratic nominee for the seat in the same election.

In 1936, the Phil La Follette party made sufficient gains to signal the end of the new prosperity of the Democrats. He elected the largest single bloc to the senate and laboriously arranged understandings that created an uncertain but generally workable majority favoring LaFollette-originated propositions. Not until the 1950's, after the Progressives gave up the ghost and the Republicans were weakened, did the Democratic party again become competitive.

For those interested in political history, there is another tantalizing footnote.

In 1931, a year before the landslide election of Roosevelt, the Democrats were so nearly extinguished in this state that only one — repeat one — sat in the state senate. He was Eugene Clifford of Juneau, whose son and grandson and namesakes are counted among the good friends of this balding chronicler of the rise and fall of men on the uncertain stage of Wisconsin politics.

Yet who is to say which of us had the more "realistic" view of the city? It may be that time will prove him right and will show that I was too involved in my environment to be able to see it clearly.

If you are in an accident, you do not see it the same way as the spectators do, or, the police, or the ambulance drivers. Whole parts of it may elude you, while other parts loom up out of proportion to the rest. The bride in a marriage, the husband in a divorce, do not view these events the same way as the minister and guests, the judge and the lawyers.

Being the central character in an event does not qualify you to be the most accurate witness; often, quite the contrary. It is the coach on the sidelines who has a truer view of the football game than the players in the scrimmage; and sometimes even the spectators watching it on TV can see what nobody in the stadium has observed.

Journalistic accounts of events are sometimes distorted because of ignorance, sloppiness, incompetence, or unconscious bias; but, more often, when we disagree with the report of an event we have been close to, it is less a matter of the reporter's deficiency than of our own foreshortened perspective. You can't see the picture when you are in the frame.

becomes. You cannot see it clearly, because it is too close to you.

But people forget this when they read newspaper accounts of events in which they have been involved. "That's not the way it was at all," they say. "I was there, and it happened quite differently."

Even trained newspapermen are trapped by this psychological mirage. The recent A. J. Liebling Conference on New Journalism in New York reminded me of my disillusionment in this connection.

I had always admired Liebling's pieces in The New Yorker magazine. His articles from France seemed masterpieces of perception, accuracy and objectivity. Then he came to Chicago to write a series about the city. I met him a few times, and helped him with some sources. When the articles appeared (and were later published in book form as "Second City"), I was astonished that he had so misviewed and misjudged my city.

I had known Chicago all my life, and he had been here only a few weeks. His opinions seemed willfully wrong to me: petty and petulant, biased and ignorant and smart-alecky. I could agree with some general

Buckley Says McGovern Pulled Trick on Television Nets

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY
Tricky George! That was quite a performance Senator McGovern gave, on announcing his choice of Sargent Shriver as vice-presidential candidate. For one thing, the networks had been reluctant to cut into the prime time unless they had his assurance that he would give hard news. Well, they finally got that assurance from him. Then what did he do? Make the announcement about Sargent Shriver, and extol Shriver's qualifications for office?

The question is best answered mathematically. If you stretch Senator McGovern's speech down in column inches, you get a total text of just over 57 inches. Of these 57 inches, he devoted exactly two to Sargent Shriver.

Now to be absolutely fair to Senator McGovern, it is just possible that he didn't have more than two inches' worth of information about Sargent Shriver. That happens to all of us every now and then — you know, you are suddenly conscripted at the last minute to introduce John Jones at the banquet or at the bridal dinner, and all you know about him is that he is the brother-in-law of the mayor, but of course you don't want to use that, because it's John's night, and he shouldn't be wired for radiance to another generation than his own. So you manage to extrude three or four sentences out of the old resourceful tube and quickly get on to other matters. After all, at the rate at which Senator McGovern was offering the vice presidency, the listings in the Yellow Pages were pretty well exhausted, and it is too much to expect that he should have time to brief himself on the qualifications of all of them.

Couldn't Cut It
But he did have time to deliver a practically endless speech. The networks were stuck with it, because they could hardly, in all decorum, cut off the broadcast after the brief mention of Sargent Shriver's name.

Unquestionably what happened is this. The speechwriter was told — "Put together a great big campaign speech. We're going to get a free crack at a few dozen million people. We may as well get all the mileage we can out of it. Leave a little hole in the first section, and when we come up with somebody willing to run for Vice-President, stick in his name and get something out of Who's Who, assuming he's in Who's Who, to describe him. Be sure to say he is very distinguished, that he is capable of serving if need be as President of the United States, and that we are very enthusiastic about him."

But the rest of the speech

Checkers Becomes A Deadly Contest

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A gunfight that erupted over a game of checkers left one man dead and another with a bullet lodged in his abdomen, police say.

Tony Bailey, 22, was dead on arrival at Kern General Hospital with a gunshot wound in the chest, investigators said.

was of much more than routine interest, as it happened. Almost all of it could have been delivered by Richard Nixon. As a matter of fact, almost all of it could have been delivered by Herbert Hoover. I kid you not: George McGovern has emerged as the anti-inflation candidate! It is a little as if Senator Joe McCarthy had decided to campaign on the need to abolish the Committee on Un-American Activities. Listen: "You elected a President who promised ... to halt inflation (but didn't)." An interesting question which somebody ought to ask Senator McGovern at his next press conference: "Kindly point to one spending bill passed during the Nixon Administration which you spoke against and voted against on the grounds that it's inflationary."

And more. "You need no economist to tell you what happens to a week's wages at the supermarket check-out counter, or to the savings of a lifetime when illness strikes." That sentence is several times extraordinary. On the one hand he is attempting to preempt the concern for inflation away from the Republican Party, which miserably though it has recently performed, is nevertheless one hundred times more inflation conscious than the Democrats. Second, he makes no reference to the fact that a Democratically - controlled Congress has passed all the legislation that has resulted in the deficit and in turn in the inflation. And third, without even pausing to begin a new sentence, he tacitly endorses the colossal medical health bill, which would instantly add to the inflation. Indeed, among the best friends of George McGovern, among those who love and trust him most, I don't think there is one who has discovered less than a forty billion dollar discrepancy between McGovern's projected outlays, and McGovern's projected receipts, and that means: inflation. McGovern for Chutzpah.

FVTI Opens Registration For Fall Term

Many of the 39 Full-Time Courses Already Are Filled

Registration dates for the Fox Valley Technical Institute have been announced for new and returning students.

New students are to register Aug. 30 and 31; returning students Aug. 25 and 26, and out of state students and late applicants, Sept. 5, the first day of classes.

New applicants will be allowed to register during the first week of school (through Sept. 11). After this date, such people will be allowed to register only with the approval of the appropriate supervisor.

All registrations will be in the student lounge area near the cafeteria.

Applications are still being accepted by the student services department, which is also counseling students who may be having problems with their courses, either in selection or in changing to a different program.

Closed Courses

Filled classes, and with waiting lists, are auto body, auto mechanics, auto technology, child care and development, conservation technology, nursing assistant, occupational therapy, operating room assistant, practical nursing and ward clerk programs.

However, quite a number of the programs are still open and Russell Van Straten, registrar, has asked that anyone interested in any course make inquiries.

"Quite a few of these are filled to capacity and have a waiting list that is so long, it would be nearly impossible to accommodate the people interested."

"But there are a number of them that could open before the semester begins. That's why I urge anyone who is interested in the FVTI to contact the student services department," Van Straten said.

He also added that often some of the people may be interested in another program, which they may not have considered but which may suit them instead of the course they have selected.

"It's a good idea to consider alternatives and the counselors can help in this area," the registrar said.

A total of 39 full-time programs are offered by FVTI this fall.

Little Chute St. John Sets Orientation Dates

LITTLE CHUTE — Orientation sessions for new and returning students to St. John Catholic High School have been announced by Anthony Witzczak, administrator.

Freshmen have to report for orientation at 9:30 a.m. and sophomores, 1:30 p.m. Aug. 28; juniors, 9:30 a.m. and seniors, 1 p.m. Aug. 29.

The first full day of school for all students will be Aug. 30. A total of 20 teachers, seven of whom are new, will make up the faculty.

Prison Inmates Get Chance To Determine Release Dates

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Some 200 inmates at Wisconsin's Fox Lake Correctional Institution will soon be able to sign legally binding contracts which guarantee their release on a specific date if certain provisions are met.

"A critical element in this project is that the prisoner feels complete involvement and responsibility for what is expected of him and that he comes to some conclusion about what he expects from himself," said Sanger Powers, head of the state Division of Corrections.

The 18-month experiment scheduled to begin Sept. 1, which Powers said he thinks is the first of its kind in the nation, is funded by a $34,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Labor channeled through the American Correctional Association.

Powers said the goals to be specified in the contracts typically will include completion of certain academic or vocational education, job training or a good conduct record.

Determine Future

Mutual Agreement Programing "will give inmates the opportunity to help determine their own futures and help to make them partners with the corrections-parole system in the rehabilitation process," Powers said.

The corrections chief said the medium security institution at Fox Lake was chosen, in part,

Americans Average $1.5 Trillion for Their Lives Yearly

A sign of the times, for the average family in Outagamie County and in the neighboring area, is the extent to which it is protected against the financial hazards of daily living.

It has unemployment insurance, health insurance, accident insurance and life insurance, to mention the major ones.

And, on the long-range side, it has such other bulwarks as social security, private pension plans and personal savings.

With respect to its life insurance protection, it is more heavily covered at the present time than it has ever been.

One explanation for this lies in the fact that the economic position of most local families has improved, enabling them to broaden this form of protection and to put more money into their bank accounts and investments.

Insurance Totals

The result is that the capital amount of life insurance in force in Outagamie County has climbed to an estimated total of $1,193,640,000. In Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago counties, the total is $1,193,640,000.

The facts and figures on the distribution of insurance, nationally and by states, are presented in the latest Life Insurance Fact Book and in other reports.

They show that the lives of Americans are insured for a tremendous sum of money, more than $1.5 trillion. And this does not include the substantial amount issued to veterans through the Federal government.

Wisconsin's share of this total is listed at $30,209,000,000, a big increase over the $13,024,000,000 reported ten years ago.

Just how much does this boil down to at the family level? The findings are that the average family in the state carries an amount of insurance that is equal to 24 months of its net earnings, after taxes.

Applied to Outagamie County and to the average level of income prevailing in its area, ownership of life insurance comes to approximately $21,000 per family locally.

This is considerably more than in many sections of the country and is close to twice the amount held ten years ago.

Winnebago again leads the area with a total insurance coverage of $864,000,000, or $21,800 per family.

Each family in Waupaca County averages $16,650 in insurance, bringing the county-wide total to $200,000,000. Calumet has a $129,640,000 total policy. This brings the insurance per family to $17,000.

Although ordinary life insurance continues to be the choice of most families, there has been a rapid rise in group insurance, which is usually job-connected.

Two UWGB Courses To Be Offered in Fall at UW Center-Fox Valley

Two University of Wisconsin-Green Bay courses are being offered at the UW Center-Fox Valley in the fall semester.

A two-credit course, "You and Your Food," will be taught by Dr. Harvey Benham, UWGB professor of human biology. The course, which will deal with food needs, production and storage, is scheduled to meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Dr. Fergus Hughes, assistant professor of human biology, will teach a three-credit course entitled, "Infancy and Early Childhood," also on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. The course will deal with infant genetic and physical factors; social, emotional, and cognitive development, and family and other social interaction.

Students may register Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 21 and 22, at the UW Center-Fox Valley.

Prairie Village, Kan. — Mr. Joseph Sutton reports: "My doctor suggested suppositories. I chose Preparation H suppositories. On a physical check-up my doctor noted how effectively it works." (Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases, the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H.)

Comparative figures for the first six months of 1971 were: 188 drivers tested, 115 (61 per cent) with some alcohol; 69 (37 per cent) at the State presumptive level; and 83 (44 per cent) at the federal presumptive level.

State law requires testing the blood alcohol level of drivers and pedestrians aged 16 or over who have died within six hours of the accident in which they were involved.

UW Center-Fox Valley Plans Three Programs

The University of Wisconsin Center-Fox Valley has announced three programs planned for the fall semester of the '72-'73 year, including a campus visit and lectures by black power spokesman Dr. Nathan Wright Jr., a concert by Willie Dixon and the Chicago Blues All-Stars and an evening with Welsh actor Emlyn Williams doing his widely acclaimed performance of "Dylan Thomas Growing Up."

An urbanist and historian who is currently professor of urban affairs at the State University of New York at Albany, Wright will deliver a series of lectures and discussions at the campus on Sept. 14.

Wright will conclude his visit with a lecture at 7:30 p.m. in the campus fine arts theater.

The day's activities will be open to the public; no admission will be charged.

Wright recently returned from a world tour which included visits with Eldridge Cleaver and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. He summoned and chaired the historic National Conference on Black Power in 1967.

Willie Dixon — Chicago Blues All-Stars blues band is scheduled for an 8:15 Nov. 30, Williams will perform his show on Dylan Thomas. Scheduled in the campus theater, the Williams performance is also open to the public.

Republicans Schedule Annual Corn Roast At Greenville Park

An election-year mix of corn and candidates will be served up by Outagamie County Republicans Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the party's annual corn roast at Greenville Community Park.

Party officials said most GOP candidates for county, state and national office will attend the event, three miles northwest of Appleton at the intersection of U. S. 45 and State 76.

The Ray Reis band will entertain. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for those under 18 years of age. Pete Berg and Don Brown are co-chairmen.

Bridge Repairs Near Completion on Prospect

Repairs to the Prospect Avenue bridge over Jackson Street are nearing completion and Appleton Engineer Thomas Harp said the detour around the project area may be lifted by the end of this week.

Contractors have been replacing an abutment wall and painting metal portions of the bridge. Harp said in his weekly report on public works construction projects that the new abutment wall is expected to be finished this week.

That would permit the detour to be lifted while the painting continues. He said about another week remains in the painting project.

Police & Fire Beat

Two persons were taken by private ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 9:45 p.m. Sunday after they were injured in a car-motorcycle collision at the corner of Lawe and South River streets.

The driver of the motorcycle, William J. Schuh, 17, route 1, Kaukauna, was hospitalized with left foot injuries and lacerations to the left hip, while his passenger, Nancy L. Preuss, 15, Portage, suffered lacerations and a fracture of the left knee and left shoulder injuries.

According to Appleton police, the motorcycle was traveling south on Lawe Street when it was struck by a car driven by Fred A. Nichols, 68, 3620 Winnebago Road, Oshkosh, who was pulled out from a stop sign, as he headed west on South River Street.

David J. Jansen, 26, 201 10th St., Kaukauna, was taken by private ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 12:30 a.m. today after he suffered back pains when the car in which he was riding struck a car driven by Steve L. Carpenter, 21, route 2, Clintonville, on College Avenue, one-third mile east of Matthias Street.

According to Appleton police, a car driven by James L. LaBorde, 24, 120 E. Third St., Kaukauna, crossed the center line, striking the Carpenter car.

Steve J. Schmit, 933 W. Spring St., reported the theft of a 12-volt battery from his parked car to Appleton police about 2 p.m. Sunday.

Schmit told police the car was parked in the driveway with the hood open when he discovered the theft. He placed the value of the battery at $25.

Three rural Appleton youths and a rural Hortonville youth, all 17, were apprehended by Appleton police in the 1800 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue about 3:30 a.m. today, after they passed a parked police car and shouted obscenities.

Following a search of the vehicle, the driver was charged with having intoxicants in a car with minors and with illegal possession of fireworks, while two of the passengers were charged with drinking intoxicants in a moving vehicle.

Bridge Repairs Near Completion on Prospect

Repairs to the Prospect Avenue bridge over Jackson Street are nearing completion and Appleton Engineer Thomas Harp said the detour around the project area may be lifted by the end of this week.

Contractors have been replacing an abutment wall and painting metal portions of the bridge. Harp said in his weekly report on public works construction projects that the new abutment wall is expected to be finished this week.

That would permit the detour to be lifted while the painting continues. He said about another week remains in the painting project.

In other projects, Harp reported asphalt paving work is scheduled this week on Weimar, Summer and Meade streets and Linwood Avenue.

Meade Street relocation between Wisconsin Avenue and Summer Street continues, with traffic to be detoured around the project area as necessary.

Sanitary sewer reconstruction continues in the vicinity of S. Island Street and Lawe Street.

Permanent repair of street excavations where utility work has been done is also continuing. Harp said work on south side streets has been completed and the contractor has moved to the north side.

Doctor Tells Kansas Man How To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Prairie Village, Kan. — Mr. Joseph Sutton reports: "My doctor suggested suppositories. I chose Preparation H suppositories. On a physical check-up my doctor noted how effectively it works." (Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases, the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H.)

Missing Girl Found in Dazed State

CHICAGO (AP) — Four persons have been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor in connection with the disappearance of a 16-year-old Marshfield, Wis., girl who was found Sunday dazed and wandering on a Chicago street.

A hospital spokesman said Sandra Roberts was in satisfactory condition after being admitted in a "state of shock." She had been missing since Aug. 7 when she arrived at the Greyhound Bus Station to visit relatives.

Robert J. Prater, 24, Earl Sweeney, 37, and two juveniles were charged with contributing to delinquency. Miss Roberts had stayed with them during the week, police said.

Miss Roberts arrived at the bus station here Monday en route to visit her aunt in south suburban Crete. Authorities said Miss Roberts apparently missed a bus that would have taken her to Crete.

Police said she apparently attempted to hitchhike.

Police, acting on a tip, went to a North Side apartment building. Officials found the girl wandering on a nearby street.

Authorities said the four suspects were residents of the building.

35,000 Jews to be Released by Soviets

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Soviet leaders promised President Nixon during his visit to Moscow in May that they will let 35,000 Jews emigrate to Israel each year, says Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

Unofficial sources in Moscow reported in March that the Kremlin planned to let 30,000 Jews go to Israel this year, so the agreement which Rockefeller said Nixon obtained presumably represents an increase of 5,000.

Winding up a four-day visit to Israel, Rockefeller told a news conference on Sunday the issue of Soviet Jews was "high on the President's agenda" for the May summit. The governor said the President and Presidential Adviser Henry Kissinger told him about the agreement by the Kremlin's leaders

Swedes to Give Funds to Hanoi

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Swedish aid to North Vietnam will total $64 million over the next three years, says Lennart Klackenborg, undersecretary in the Foreign Office.

The government is also releasing $30 million earmarked for rebuilding after the war because of the disastrous situation caused by the U.S. bombing offensive, Klackenborg said, at a news conference Sunday night.

Klackenborg returned recently from a visit to North Vietnam as the head of a government commission.

Swedish aid to North Vietnam has been totaling $15 million a year but since 1970 $10 million of this year has been put into the fund for postwar assistance.

Marijuana Destroyed in West Virginia Fields

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Gus Douglass says marijuana hunters who found a bonanza in West Virginia's eastern panhandle counties last year will do well by staying home this summer.

The commissioner reported Sunday that as of August 7, crews from his agency had destroyed 1,111 acres of marijuana since an eradication program, funded by the legislature, began in May. Douglass said "this is nearly one-half of the known 2,600 acres growing wild" in the state.

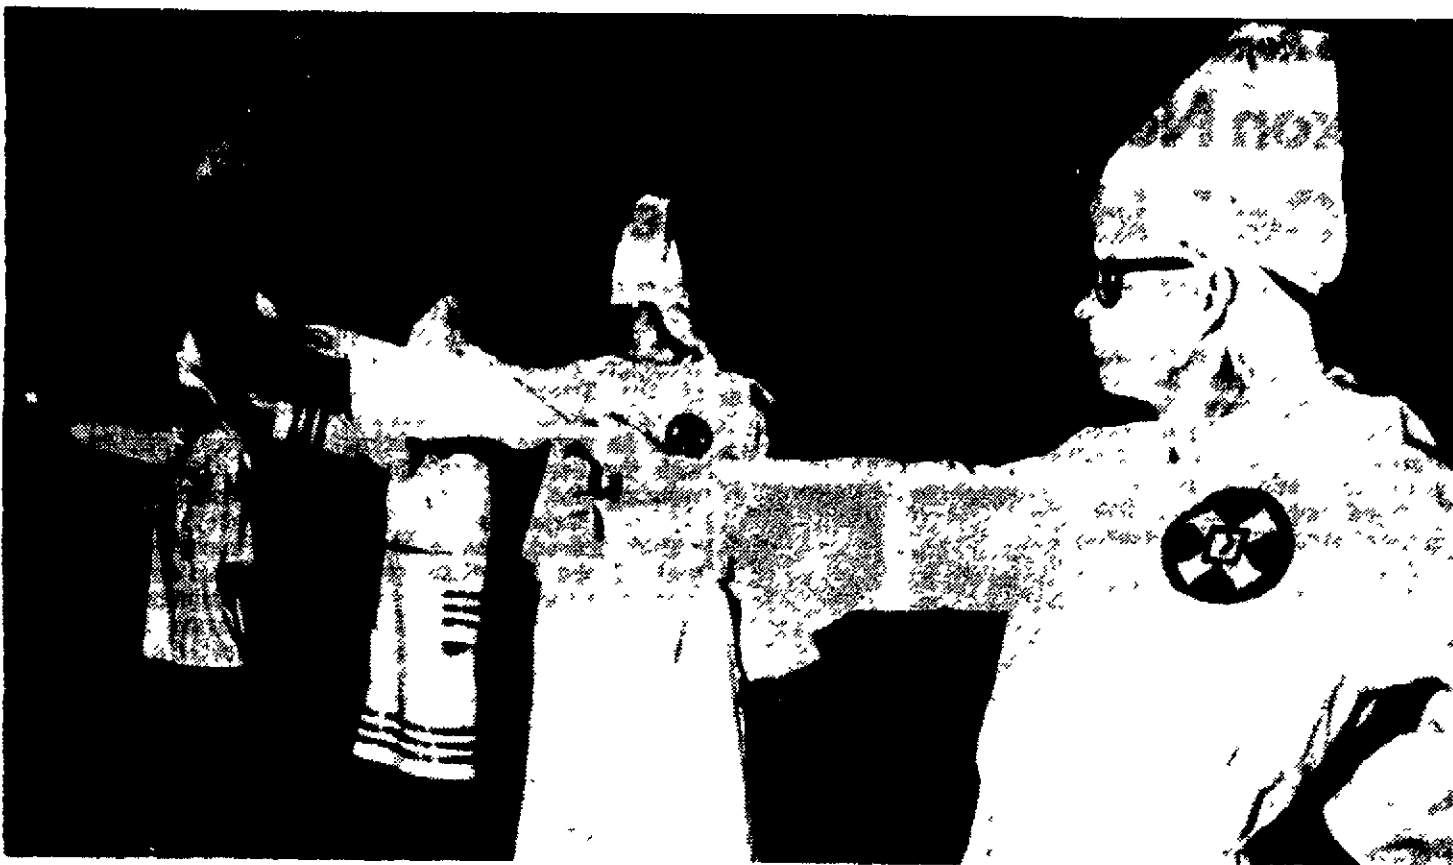

Numerous out of state residents came into the eastern portion of the state last year to harvest the crops, prompting Douglass to seek legislative approval to eradicate it.

Man Drowns in Pool At Home in Kenosha

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — David Young, 22, who moved here one week ago from Escanaba, Mich., drowned in a private pool at a Kenosha home during the weekend.

Authorities said David Young, 22, was discovered at the bottom of the pool Saturday night when another partygoer at the North Side home of Robert Berta went swimming.

New Chess Challenge System Set Up

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The winner of the current world chess championship will defend his title in 1975 under a new system forced on the International Chess Federation by Bobby Fischer.

The match this year between Fischer and defending champion Boris Spassky can run a maximum of 24 games, with a win counting one point, a draw half a point, the defending champion needing 12 points to retain his title and the challenger needing 12½ points to take the crown.

In the 1975 play the first player to reach six points will win the title and a draw will count for nothing.

The challenger will be chosen over a three-year elimination period, with zonal tournaments this year, interzonals in 1973 and the candidates round in 1974 to pick the challenger for the championship.

Zone Tournaments

Ten zone tournaments this year will choose a total of 18 players, with no more than three to come from any zone. There will be two interzonal round robins, with the 18 players from the zones competing along with 16 stars.

Eight of the latter have been picked already by the international federation, or FIDE. They are Paul Keres, Vasily Smyslov, Mikhail Tal, Lev Polugayevsky and Leonid Stein, all of the Soviet Union; Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia; Lejos Portisch of Hungary and Vlastimil Hort of Czechoslovakia.

The other six are the players Fischer or Tigran Petrosian eliminated in the candidates' round for the 1972 championship: Efim Geller, Victor Korchnoi and Mark Tammanov of the Soviet Union; Bent Larsen, Denmark; Robert Hubner, West Germany, and Wolfgang Ullman, East Germany.

Candidates Round

The top three players from each interzonal will move into the candidates' round, the final elimination before the championship. The six will be joined in that one by Petrosian, as the runnerup in the last candidates' round, and by the loser in the current Spassky-Fischer championship match.

The winner of the candidates' round will meet the champion in 1975.

Spassky postponed the 14th game in the current championship until Tuesday, saying he did not feel well. It was generally assumed that he had not recovered from the marathon 13th game Thursday and Friday which he lost in 74 moves over 9½ hours of play.

Spassky's indisposition was certified by the tournament's official doctor, Ulsar Poroson. Each player is allowed three medical postponements, and this was Spassky's second.

The score in the match is now 8-5, and most experts think Fischer is certain to win.

Statute of Limitations Expires on Mail Truck Robbery of $1.5 Million

BOSTON (AP) — The 10-year with equipment stolen from the Massachusetts statute of limitations ran out today on the $1.5 million Plymouth mail robbery, which all traffic off the highway the slick holdup of a mail truck loaded with money bags.

Authorities say not one cent of the huge cash haul, all in bills, has ever been found.

Reaching the end of the statute of limitations means no one may be prosecuted in the case, but authorities said the search for the money will continue.

It also means that $200,000 in reward money put up jointly by the U.S. Post Office and the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston for information leading to the conviction of the robbers will remain uncollected.

Three persons were indicted on federal charges in the case. One disappeared before he could stand trial. The two others were acquitted by a federal jury.

The Aug. 14, 1962 holdup began at about 8:30 p.m. as a panel truck, heading from Hyannis to the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston, drove north on Route 3, passing through the outskirts of Plymouth.

Secluded Spot

At a point where a hilly dividing strip blocked the scene from the south-bound lane of the four-lane highway, two cars parked sideways blocked the truck's progress.

Two men, one dressed as a policeman and the other in civilian clothes, overpowered the driver, William Barrett of Mansfield, and the armed guard, Patrick Schena.

Four miles back down the highway, other members of the holdup crew set up a roadblock.

The two mail employees were bound and put in the back of the truck with the money bags, and the holdup men drove the truck off.

The employees said the truck stopped twice, the first time to unload some of the money bags and the second time to unload the rest.

Truck Abandoned

Finally, the two holdup men, who had called each other "Tony" and "Buster," abandoned the truck and made their getaway. When the mail employees freed themselves they found they were in Randolph, about 60 miles from the robbery scene.

In 1967, two of the three persons indicted in the case were brought to trial in federal court in Boston.

It took the jury one hour's deliberation to acquit John J. Kelly of Watertown and blonde, beautiful Patricia Diaferio of Boston.

Widely known Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey and fellow defense counsel Joseph Balliro rested their case without calling a single witness.

Bailey said the federal case was a "shambles and a disgrace to the community and the government."

The third person indicted, Thomas R. Richards of Weymouth, disappeared five days before his trial began and has not been found.

Sergeant Completes 25 Years in Air Force

Air Force M. Sgt. Donald W. Bessette, formerly of Appleton, and his branch of the service will celebrate 25 years of working together in September when the Air Force marks its silver anniversary.

Bessette, at the time the Air Force became a separate branch of the military, was just completing a 13-week basic training course in the military. He had graduated from Appleton High School in 1947.

The sergeant, a radio operator on flying status early in his career, is currently fulfilling duties as a senior duty controller with the logistics readiness center at Richards-Gebaur Air Base, Mo.

Bessette, his wife and four children presently are living in Fort Worth, Tex. His brother, Clayton R. Bessette, lives at 533 McKinley St., Appleton.

Spec. 4 Richard G. Cotton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Cotton, 838 E. Franklin St., recently was promoted to his present rank while serving with the 572nd Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company in Germany.

He is a 1970 graduate of Appleton High School-West.

Navy Ensign Clark H. Lando, son of Mrs. Ruth Lando, 721 S. Timmers Lane, has become a member of the Navy's "Flatop Fraternity."

Lando is in flight training with Training Squadron Five at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., and has made six landings and take-offs from the flight deck of the carrier Lexington operating in the Gulf of Mexico.

Airman James S. Greenwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Greenwood, route 1, Kaukauna, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Base, Tex., and has been assigned to Chanute Air Base, Ill., for training in the armament systems field.

Greenwood is a 1971 graduate of Freedom High School and has attended the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Army Spec. 4 Marvin P. Brockman, 21 son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald J. Brockman, route 3, Appleton, has completed a 10-week ammunition storage course at the Missile and Munitions School, Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Brockman entered the Army in January and was last stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., where he received basic training.

Spec. 4 David E. Krueger, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Krueger, 1105 E. Hanson Drive, has completed a 10-week ammunition storage course at the Army Missile and Munitions School, Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Krueger entered the Army in January and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

His wife Polly lives at route 6, Appleton.

Airman 1. C. Richard M. Balza, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Tony Balza, 1119 E. Lindbergh St., has arrived for duty at Ramstein Air Base, Germany. Balza, a radio repairman, is assigned to a unit of NATO. He previously served at Homestead Air Force Base, Fla.

The airman is a 1969 graduate of Xavier High School.

Airman Don J. Quarford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Y. Quarford, 9 N. Bartlett Court, has graduated at Sheppard Air Base, Tex., from the Air Force water and sanitation specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

He is being assigned to Kincheloe Air Base, Mich., for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Quarford is a 1971 graduate of West Iron County High School.

Nixon Needed Jackson's Help To Get Trident Submarine Funds

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — As the Senate neared a decision late last month on the new fleet of missile-firing Trident submarines, President Nixon was confronted with a policy of profound importance for both national security and domestic politics.

To prevent the Senate from cutting Trident production mon-help from Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, normally energetic for defense spending but less than enthusiastic about Trident. To get Jackson's support, it was made clear, the White House ought to go along with his hard-line amendment to the U. S.-Soviet nuclear arms agreement. But Jackson's language, White House political operatives feared, might smudge Nixon's image as peace President. The President chose the hard line. By accepting the Jackson language, he insured approval of the Trident. But beyond Trident, Nixon was making clear he wanted no real break with the Senate's pro-defense-spending bloc.

Major Goal
That, indeed, was a major goal of the bipartisan group supporting the Jackson amendment. Whether the amendment directly affects the second phase of strategic arms limitations talks (SALT) as Jackson intends is subject to debate. But there is no doubt Nixon has had to choose between friends and enemies in the Senate.

After Nixon returned from Moscow June 1 with his first-phase SALT agreement, there was resentment inside the Senate's defense bloc that he was relying too much on his eneemies. The sight of Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois (a consistent opponent of Nixon defense programs) serving on national television as defender of the SALT agreement did not sit well in the Senate Republican cloakroom.

Conservative Republicans felt Nixon had relied on them for the grimy business of passing defense projects but now ignored their wishes while his foes on defense collaborated with him on arms control.

Proposed Amendment
Republican senators (including Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee) were eagerly receptive when Jackson proposed an amendment to the Senate resolution approving the nuclear arms agreement. His amendment suggested the treaty would be abrogated if the Soviet Union took advantage of the agreement to build nuclear weapons threatening the U. S. ability to survive.

The first White House reaction was negative. Besides worrying about the Kremlin's reaction, Nixon's national security officials told Republican senators the President's political advisers wanted no hawks-vs.-

doves Senate confrontation over SALT. One top Nixon political operative was quoted as saying such a fight would keep the President's Moscow trip from remaining "an unblemished political plus."

The White House mood perceptibly changed, however, when it considered the seriousness of the Senate drive against Trident. Some Republicans backing Jackson's language on the SALT agreement were listed in the Pentagon headcount as opposing Trident. Once the White House privately signaled it would not oppose the amendment, these Republicans and Jackson came around. Thanks significantly to Jackson's efforts, the anti-Trident drive failed, 47 to 39.

Worried About Soviets
When the White House announced Aug. 3 that Jackson's amendment is consistent with U. S. policy, there was instant outrage — by Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, by chief negotiator Gerard Smith — and by the Russians.

But it did not satisfy Fulbright and his allies in the Senate Democratic leadership. At this writing, they warn Senate consideration of the arms agreement might not come before the recess for the Republican national convention. That delay might bluish the "political plus" of the President's peace initiatives, just as his aides feared.

Having it both ways on national security was proving difficult, even for Nixon.

Man Accused of Throwing Acid On Wife, Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — A 30-year-old jeweler was charged Saturday with felonious assault after he allegedly poured a gallon of acid on his 16-month-old daughter and his wife. The wife and child were in satisfactory condition at Bellevue Hospital.

Police said Arturo Montalvo, an Ecuadorian who kept what they believed was sulfuric acid at home to clean precious metals, apparently became enraged about an undisclosed matter and poured half the acid on his daughter Anthia, who suffered burns on 30 per cent of her body.

When his wife Gloria, 22, tried to stop him, police said, Montalvo poured the rest on her. She had burns on 75 per cent of her body.

Cardinal Dies at 92, Veteran of Vatican Service

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Paolo Cardinal Giobbe, an Italian who spent more than 30 years in the Vatican diplomatic service, died at his Rome apartment early today. He was 92 and had been bedridden for several months.

His death reduced the College of Cardinals to 117.

Cardinal Giobbe was papal nuncio in Colombia from 1925 to 1936 and then for 22 years as internuncio in the Netherlands.

Pope John XXIII named him a cardinal in 1958, and he returned to the Vatican as a member of the Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples and the Congregation for the Cause of Saints.

During Vatican II, the 1962-1965 ecumenical council, Cardinal Giobbe was vice president of the Commission for Liturgy.

Not Much Change Seen In Attitudes on Race

Black Women Stars on Television
Make Known Opinions of Medium

BY LINDA DEUTSCH

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When it comes to black and white — racially speaking — the era of color TV hasn't seen many attitude changes, say two of the medium's most successful black women stars.

Diahann Carroll, who broke new ground five years ago as the first black woman star of a TV series, "Julia," says she's not doing another series yet because she's found no truthful scripts about blacks.

"I've had an awful lot of meetings about TV ideas," Miss Carroll said Thursday. "But the thinking is still pretty stereotyped because we live in a segregated world."

Fight for Image

Melba Moore, a newcomer to home screens as Carol Burnett's summer replacement, said she had to fight constantly to project a truthful image of herself and costar Clifton Davis.

"The thing about it is that we're both niggers, man," says Miss Moore. "That's why we're funny. We take things out of our backgrounds."

To get this across despite opposition of writers and directors, she says, "we have to fight so much that by the time we did the taping, we looked like we were stoned or something."

'Julia' a Milestone

Miss Carroll, who had just finished taping a guest spot on the Bill Cosby Show, says she looks back at "Julia" as a milestone, although "in today's market I no longer consider it a valid statement for television to make."

In the situation comedy she portrayed a widowed black nurse with a small son and white neighbors.

"Julia presented shows with black people playing in primarily white situations," she says. "But while the scripts were terribly light and made no contribution to our enlightenment about each other, it was important for the industry to know that people were turning on their televisions to watch a black family."

The series lasted three years, and Miss Carroll believes it would still be running had the scripts caught up with the revolution in black attitudes.

"We should have come out of fantasy and into reality more," she says.

'Purle' Award

Miss Moore, expressing a bitter consciousness of slurs against her race, says she doubts she'd have made it to TV at all had she not first won Broadway's Tony award for her star role in "Purle."

If she does another TV series, says Miss Moore, "everyone involved will have to be aware of the kind of blackness we want to do. That's part of our inherent personalities. If you've got a commodity to sell, you've got to know what that commodity is."

Miss Carroll, a veteran of most entertainment mediums, concedes some things have changed since she started doing TV guest spots more than 10 years ago.

The changes she enumerates are: An end to the "quota system" in variety shows which meant using only a set number of black guests per week; elimination of the ban on whites and blacks touching on screen; and a new preference for dark-skinned blacks.

Black stereotypes in television are "still pretty bad," says Miss Carroll, although she says she finds the series "Sanford and Son" a "delightful" step forward.

Only social change will change the reflection of blacks on TV screens, as she sees it. "The big trouble is the whole country," she said. "We live apart. The people who live truly integrated lives you can count on one hand."

Great Tolstoy Classic, First Part Tonight

8-10 Channels 11-9 — The third of four chapters of the great Russian-made, dubbed-into-English film version of Leo Tolstoy's classic, "War and Peace," is on tap tonight. This one is another two hours of the epic, with the final 1½ hours scheduled for tomorrow.

7-8 Channels 11-9 — A sure sign that summer is drawing to a close is the subject matter of The Monday Night Special — college football. With Lee Majors in charge, "College Football '72 — The Season in 60 Minutes" takes a look at what the experts expect will happen, which teams will win which titles, which individuals will become All-Americans and who will be coach of the year.

7-Conclusion Channel 5 — The

Raquel Welch Enjoys Glamor Girl Image

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you think Raquel Welch hates being a glamor symbol and a sex goddess, you've got the wrong girl.

Hayworth, Kim Novak and Marilyn Monroe.

"I don't think that the public has a mistaken image of me — only that it is too limited," she said frankly during a luncheon at Orsinis, where her skimpy halter and bare midriff attracted far more interest than the chef's speciality of the day, Pollo con Peperoni—chicken with pepper.

More Dimension
"I don't find it unflattering or immoral to be regarded as a sex object. I want to go on playing sexy roles, but I want them also to be more than one-dimensional."

"I'd like to play more many-dimensional roles, as Julie Christie and Jane Fonda do. My image simply needs to be updated rather than changed."

tacles—professional roller skate racing.

"It's the most important thing I've done so far," she said. "I did a lot to put it together. I found the script, spent six months learning to skate, and even managed to break my right wrist before we started shooting it."

Famous beauties, like ordinary women, often are as aware of their defects as they are of their loveliness. Remember that the Venus de Milo couldn't even drink a bowl of soup without someone holding the spoon for her.

Raquel is sometimes uptight too. She feels that her biggest handicap is lack of self-confidence.

"It's my worst fault," she said. "I get in a panic that I won't be able to do things as well as I want to. I could do with less panic and less inside hysteria. I have to fight it every time."

What does she feel is her best character asset?
"I forgive easily," she replied. "I'm not very cynical. I'm still vulnerable. But I'd rather be pushed around and taken advantage of than become cynical."

"I am hopeful and optimistic. My philosophy is to enjoy everything that happens, the good times and feelings, but also the bad times and feelings—because of the experience and knowledge they bring you. I believe that you can have happiness in a lifetime. I believe we should become immersed in life and not try to fight off our emotions and impulses for fear of where they might lead us."
